Cloud Battin, Eavesdropper, Tells Of Events At Farm Home

By WATSON FENIMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 20.—Cloud Battin, the grizzled farmer who is the star witness for Henry Huddleston Rogers, Jr., in the mysterious shooting of Evelyn Hoey, today admitted at the inquest into the Broadway beauty's death that he "might" have called it murder at first.

After hearing the farmer repeat his story of watching Rogers and his friend, William J. Kelley, sitting in the living room of Rogers' "Indian Run farm" manor at the precise moment the fatal shot rang out in Rogers' bedroom upstairs, District Attorney William A. Clarke produced a sensation by asking:

"When Mr. Clark arrived didn't you say a murder had been committed?"

Was Excited

"I don't know—that a lady was shot in the house there I guess," Battin replied haltingly. "I was excited I guess."

The Clark referred to was Joseph Sill Clark prominent Philadelphia lawyer, who arrived at Rogers' estate a few minutes after the shooting on the night of Sept. 11.

Battin explained he had come to Rogers' place from his own farm early in the evening to collect some back pay due him for work on the

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Hail stones of quite large proportions fell during the downpour in New Castle yesterday, according to reports made to Pa Newc.

Seldom has such a rapid change in weather conditions been noted in this section as that of yesterday afternoon. With mid-July heat being experienced at noon, and with almost a cloudless sky in evidence, a sudden storm developed about two o'clock that threatened for a time to approach flood proportions. The weather cleared off in an hour or so, but around six o'clock, another sudden downpour was experienced, also one later in the evening.

Races at the New Castle Fair were called off yesterday afternoon, due to the heavy rains. The race card will extend through Saturday at the fair as a result, it was announced.

The precipitation during the afternoon and evening was as heavy as any this summer, an inch and a half of rain falling in a series of thunder storms.

Pa Newc's heart beat yesterday for a sign painter who, trapped on his high scaffold on the wall of a building at North Jefferson and East North streets, was forced to endure the greater part of that sudden afternoon rainstorm. Tugging feverishly at ropes which lowered and raised his working platform, he finally managed to get down. He couldn't have been wetter if he had jumped into one of the creeks.

Third Church Calls Pastor

Third U. P. Extends Call To Rev. Chester T. R. Yeates, Of Rochester, Pa.

CHURCH MEMBERS MEET LAST NIGHT

A unanimous call to the pastorate of the Third United Presbyterian church, East Washington street, was extended to the Rev. Chester T. R. Yeates, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of Rochester, Pa., Thursday night, at a specially called meeting of the congregation.

Rev. Yeates has preached on several occasions at the Third church and has been received with splendid approval. He is a young man, of pleasing personality, and sincere in his calling. He has a multitude of friends among the young people as well as those older. He has been quite active in the work of the denominational Y. P. C. U. program of summer activities in the Beaver Valley.

To Present Formal Call

Last night's meeting was attended by a large number of the church members. Members were enthusiastic about the prospect of having the young Rochester minister for their leader.

The formal call to the pastorate of the local church will be presented to Rev. Yeates and the Beaver Valley Presbytery in the very near future.

Rev. William F. Rotzler, D.D., of New Brighton, presided at the meeting.

The Third United Presbyterian church has been without a pastor since last April 1 when the resignation of Rev. S. B. Copeland, D.D., took effect. Dr. Copeland, who had been pastor of the church since January, 1921, accepted a charge at Wheeling, W. Va.

Lightning Is Cause Of Alarms

Firemen Answer Two Calls Caused By Bolts Thursday Afternoon And Evening

Firemen were called out Thursday afternoon and evening because of the lightning during the storms which swept over the city.

At 2:10, they were summoned to the home of Dale Principe, of 823 Fulkerson street by an alarm from box 64. They could find no damage, however, only a wire being knocked down.

At 10:25 last evening, an alarm from box 71 called them to the home of Flanders White, of 307 Preston avenue where lightning had struck the home, causing damage of around $10.

Britain Seeking To Lessen Concern On Possible Conflict

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 20—The British government today moved to lessen world concern over possibility of an Anglo-Italian conflict growing out of the Italo-Ethiopia affair.

Dispatches from abroad, although mainly unprinted here under pressure from the government, clearly indicated this world alarm, based upon the great concentration of British warships and airplanes in the Mediterranean area, and the answering sea and air manoeuvers staged in the same area by Italy.

Fear Minor Incident

The news reports made it clear neither Britain nor Italy were overlooking any bets in preparing for any eventuality, including armed conflict. Foreign diplomats commented guardedly on the possibilty that any sort of minor incident

Rain Affects Fair Program Thursday

Washed out by the torrential rain on Thursday afternoon and evening, the authorities in charge of the New Castle fair were hoping for a better break today. School children of the New Castle Schools were given the afternoon off in order to attend the fair and it was hoped that the adults who were kept away Thursday would be out today.

The rain of Thursday hit at just the wrong time. The early afternoon crowd was just arriving when the storm broke. The race track was soon a mire and the races were called off after a few heats had been run.

Traffic conditions at the fair this year are being handled in an admirable fashion. What in other years might have been a jam was handled Thursday afternoon with ease and the men in charge of this end of the fair have their work down to a system.

Judging has been completed in almost every department of the exhibitions and the prize winners named. Among the cattle the competition this year was especially keen.

The free entertainment and the attractions of the night fair are ex-

Miners And Operators Representatives In Conference At Washington

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Faced with the possibility of a great industrial battle grim-faced representatives of the Appalachian coal operators and United Mine Workers went into conference again today, in another attempt to negotiate a new wage scale to replace the one expiring on midnight Sunday.

It was admitted on both sides that the situation is ominous, but the sessions will continue until a new contract is agreed upon or negotiations break up. In the event that no agreement is reached, it is believed the government will step in and demand that a solution be arrived at to prevent the walkout of 400,000 bituminous coal miners on Monday.

District Struck By Freak Storm

Lights Out For Time On East And South Sides On Thursday

TWO COWS KILLED AT ELLWOOD CITY

Another freak storm passed over this area yesterday, a combination of wind, rain, and lightning, which in its effect was probably the most serious storm experienced this summer. Electric service on the East and south sides of New Castle was out in the late evening for all or a portion of the hour between ten and eleven, occasioned by a direct hit by lightning at the Vogan Street sub-station, it being necessary to close switches so as to supply the service from other parts of the system.

The lightning struck the substation at Thompson Run below Ellwood City, causing a short interruption.

Transformer was damaged at the Ben Franklin Junior High school and a large transformer was destroyed up on Sheridan avenue.

In the neighborhood of Ellwood City a transformer was destroyed and two cows killed by lightning.

Find Man Holding Dead Body Of Girl

Apparently Killed In Auto Crash Near Norristown, Pa.

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 20.—tightly clutching the body of a young woman — apparently his sweetheart—Gordon Stover, 25, of Phoenixville, was found sitting in a stupor beneath a tree along the Perkiomen creek in Grandview Park, near here, today.

Nearby was the wreckage of Stover's automobile.

The woman, identified as Miss Marea Ash, 24, of Phoenixville, had been dead about six hours, doctors here reported after an examination of the body.

Piecing together a disconnected story told by Stover, detectives said the automobile in which the couple was returning to their homes from a "drinking party" had evidently run off the road, careened across a field, crashed over a 20-foot embankment, and overturned.

Stover told them, authorities said, that he and Miss Ash crawled from the wreckage and "being tired went to sleep." When he awoke, he found Miss Ash was dead. Stunned by the tragedy, he had held the girl in his arms for two-hours before he was discovered.

State Supreme Court Rules That Legislation Is Unconstitutional

(International News Service)

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 20.—Nebraska's four million dollar social security act, providing for all phases of relief and public welfare, was declared unconstitutional by the state supreme court today.

The court held that it was passed before the federal act, with which it would have dovetailed in some respects, and therefore had the effect of delegating authority to congress; also, no rule or standard of expenditure was set up, the court held.

The money was to have been provided by a one-cent per gallon gasoline tax.

State Banking Head Forecasts Big Opportunity

Says Next Five Years Will Be Attractive For B. & L. Association

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 20—Pennsylvania building and loan associations may look for their greatest opportunities during the next five years, Secretary of Banking Luther A. Harr told delegates to the annual convention of the Pennsylvania League of Building & Loan Associations here today.

The most important of these opportunities, Dr. Harr declared, lies in supplying funds for meeting America's urgent need for housing.

Neither governmental nor private financial agencies can supplant the building and loan association, he held, saying:

"Cast aside any fear that your unique function as the agency best designed to promote the building of homes for our workers and professional men will be usurped by any other agency, governmental or private. It is ridiculous to assert that such an institution has no future."

Coroner's Jury Hears Testimony

Reports Mulqueeny And Davis Acted In Self Defense In Koenecke Attack

INQUEST HELD ON THURSDAY NIGHT

(International News Service)

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 20.—Joseph Mulqueeney and Irwin Davis, Detroit airmen, killed Leonard Koenecke, Brooklyn baseball star, in self-defense when he attacked them in an airplane over Toronto last Tuesday night, a coroner's jury decided early today at Islington, suburb of this city.

The verdict was reached after jury had been out 21 minutes. The drama of the air will in all probability end today when charges of manslaughter facing Mulqueeney and Davis will be withdrawn. Crown Attorney C. Frank Moore said he would not withdraw the charges, without a police court hearing, adding that "the magistrate would have to hear some evidence and if there was not sufficient evidence, the case would be dismissed."

Sufficient alcohol was found in the blood of Leonard Koenecke to have created "an ideal condition" for a display of violence and quarrelsomeness, Professor L. Joslyn Rogers, provincial analyst, testified. He denied that any poison, other than alcohol, was found in the body.

Koenecke died of cerrebral hemorrhage, Dr. W. H. Taylor testified. The head and left side of the face was covered with "extensive abrasions." There were no marks on the neck and shoulders and none of the wounds in itself would have been fatal, he said. He examined a small fire extinguisher and said wounds were "exactly" such as could have been caused if wielded a great many times."

BRITAIN SEEKING TO LESSEN CONCERN ON WORLD CONFLICT

might result in a few hours in a war of uncheckable proportions.

The Mediterranean was pictured as a powder-box with the British and Italian massed fleets a "flint and steel" combination which might set it off at any moment.

To counter-act such foreign fears, British official circles today pointed out no Italian protest had been received regarding the presence of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, despite the loud hostility of the Italian Press.

The official British attitude, it was said, is that there is "no dispute" between Britain and Italy. The Italo-Ethiopia affair, according to this view, is not an "African matter"—in which Britain might be pictured as interested above other powers—but solely a "league matter" in which Britain is interested in upholding league laws.

Precautionary Fleet Movements

The British fleet movements are "precautionary," officials said, adding Britain must be prepared for any emergency.

Britain is prepared to uphold the league covenant, and expects others to do likewise, according to the government's view. Britain would be "foolish" not to uphold the covenant, it was said.

In some quarters mere voicing of this attitude was taken as indication of the gravity of the crisis.

The sudden decision of King George to cut short a vacation at Balmoral, Scotland, and return to London, Saturday, reflected concern in high quarters. King George, in contrast to most of the world's present crowned heads, takes a deep interest in affairs of the nation, and the international crisis was said to have resulted in his plan to hurry back to London ahead of schedule.

The warning of David Lloyd George, who guided Britain as prime minister in the world war, was regarded carefully by all officials.

MUSSOLINI NOW APPREHENSIVE ON LEAGUE ACTION

was reported on excellent authority tonight France has taken a firm stand for full application of sanctions against Italy should occasion arise.

International News Service was informed by a most reliable source that Premier Pierre Laval of France has instructed Count Charles De Chambrun, French ambassador to Rome, to inform Mussolini this evening of the French decision.

The French ambassador, it was stated, has been instructed to call on Il Duce and inform him that if Italy started hostilities against Ethiopia without awaiting the verdict of the League of Nations council on his planned African campaign, France would stand solidly beside England for full application of sanctions.

Mussolini Apprehensive

Geneva, Sept. 20.—Realizing all Europe is on the brink of war—war which might involve Italy far more deeply than he had planned—Premier Benito Mussolini today showed signs of apprehension regarding the possibilities of League of Nations action against him.

Although there was no hint of weakening in Il Duce's plans for conquest in East Africa, it was clear the stiff attitude taken by Great Britain had resulted in his charting a steadier, more cautious course through the maze of Geneva negotiations.

The British attitude was ominously backed by the greatest concentration of worships and fighting planes the Mediterranean has seen in many years, and in Geneva by virtually every other member of the League.

Ethiopia May Accept

With indications Ethiopia was likely to accept the peace proposals of the League's committee of five, it was reported Premier Mussolini was making a last minute attempt to take the Italo-Ethiopian dispute away from Geneva, fearing he may be manoeuvered into a position where he could not wage war against Ethiopia "legally".

If the League council should adopt the report of the committee of five, and it is accepted by one of the two disputants—in this case by Ethiopia—the other, Italy, would have no right under the League covenant to declare war legally.

Il Duce wishes to avoid this situation. Although heretofore he apparently had given little thought to this angle, today it was evident he does not want to break with Geneva unless he is compelled to.

Would Combat Move

The small powers would bitterly combat any move to take the dispute from the jurisdiction of the League council, fearing a precedent might be created if Ethiopia's formal complaint is side-tracked. This precedent in the future might be used against any one of the weaker league members.

Further indications of Premier Mussolini's new and more cautious attitude was his ordering Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief Italian delegate at Geneva, to try to induce Premier Pierre Laval of France to give assurance the League would not invoke severe military and naval sanctions against Italy in the event she rejected the League's proposed settlement of the East African dispute.

Instead of answering immediately, Laval conferred with Capt. Anthony Eden, chief British delegate, and here Italy's case again hit the firm opposition of Great Britain. Capt. Eden said no such assurances could be given at present. The smaller owners again were believed to be lined up solidly behind Britain.

DISTRICT STRUCK BY FREAK STORM

tion occurred to the customers on the East and South sides. This was caused by a combination of lightning effect in the vicinity of Balph avenue and by a direct lightning hit at the Vogan street sub-station, which made it necessary to patrol the line and then esparate the sub-stations so that the West Side sub-station could pick up the load on the other station, the Pennsylvania Power Company reports.

During the afternoon the wind which preceded the rain caused many of the concessionaires at the New Castle Fair grounds to take down their tents. However, before some of the tents could be taken down, a few of the smaller kind were blown down. Rain which followed made the race track so muddy races were called off until today and the spectators took shelter in the rear upper portion of the grandstand and other buildings on the grounds.

ALIBI WITNESS STRONGLY GRILLED IN GIRL'S DEATH

premises and to explain the shooting of some of the Standard Oil heir's pet dogs. He said the dogs had been shot by Robert Wright, Rogers' former caretaker. He said Rogers went into a rage as he discussed the fate of his dogs and summoned Clark by telephone with the view of planning a legal action against Wright.

He said it was while he was awaiting the arrival of Clark that the shot which killed Miss Hoey was fired. Battin said he was in the pantry adjoining the kitchen eating a bowl of soup when the shot sounded "muffled like a gun in a barrel". He said that he was watching both Rogers and Kelly through the living room window and that they were sitting together on a davenport.

Was Eavesdropping

"I was eavesdropping," the witness admitted. "I wanted to see if they were talking about me."

He said Rogers jumped up and ran upstairs and then came down, "with blood dripping from his hands", crying:

"She's done it! Oh my God! My sweetheart is gone!"

Kelly, too, came running into the kitchen shouting "she's done it!" the farmer said.

"What did you think Mr. Kelly meant when he came out and said 'she done it'?" inquired Parke.

"I haven't the faintest idea, as the feller said," replied Battin.

Parke cross-examined Battin vigorously on the location of Rogers and Kelly at the time of the shooting.

"They were on the red davenport —I'm positive," Battin insisted.

In his testimony yesterday Kelly had asserted he and Rogers were on another davenport at the time. Battin was equally positive about being in the pantry himself.

"Mr. Kelly told us yesterday you were in the kitchen," Parke said. "You couldn't have seen them from there. Are you positive you were in the pantry?"

"Yes sir."

Battin said he had earlier seen Rogers jerk a magazine out of Miss Hoey's hands, but—

"I didn't know whether he was mad at her, or what for."

"What was Miss Hoey's condition?" Park demanded.

"Well," the farmer answered, "she might have had a drink but as for being drunk, I wouldn't say the lady was."

When Rogers came down from the death room with his "bloody hands" he was distraught, the witness said.

"My Sweetheart Is Gone"

"He began to yell 'my sweetheart is gone—give me a gun so I can kill myself'," Battin related. "I tried to hold him but he struck me so I called Frank (the chauffeur) who was outside. Frank, Mr. Kelly and I managed to hold him. George (the Jap cook) wiped his hands with a towel."

Battin said that when Clark arrived a few minutes later one of his first acts was to ask Rogers for some money, explaining "I may have to do some telephoning". He said when Rogers handed him some cash the lawyer drove off "to notify police".

Vincent Downey, New York attorney representing the Hoey family, supplied the district attorney with a steady stream of suggestions during the questioning. Young Rogers and Kelly, a Union City, N. J. movie cameraman, both of whom are under $2,500 bail on the charges of suspicion of murder, watched the proceedings impassively;

The playboy was dressed entirely in black. He was 20 minutes late in arriving.

George Yamada, Rogers' oriental cook-houseboy-butler, his slant eyes shielded by huge tortoise shell glasses, followed Battin to the witness stand.

Rogers To Testify

West Chester, Pa., Sept. 20.—Henry Huddleston Rogers, Jr., wealthy playboy heir to oil millions, was to "tell all" today in an effort to clear his name at the coroner's inquest into the mystery shooting of his glamorous sweetheart, beautiful Evelyn Hoey.

At liberty under $2,500 bail on a charge of suspicion of murder in connection with the death of the golden-haired, 25-year-old actress, Rogers was to follow Cloud Battin, an unpaid former employe on his farm estate, to the stand.

Rogers already has been given an alibi by his friend, William J. Kelly, movie cameraman of Union City, N. J., who was in Rogers' country home near Downingtown that night 10 days ago when Miss Hoey died from a bullet that splintered her skull.

Kelly, also under $1,500 bail on a charge of suspicion of murder, insisted at the opening session of the inquest that young Rogers was seated in a downstairs living room of "Indian Run" farm when a shot rang out in a second floor bedroom.

But in the very next breath, the garrulous, low-voiced cameraman virtually denied the salient point of a statement given police by Battin, an important defense witness. While Kelly told the six-man jury that a few seconds after the fatal shot was fired he found Battin in the kitchen —out of sight of proceedings in the living room—the little farmer bobbed his head back and forth in denial of the witnesses' accusation. Battin has told authorities he was watching Kelly and Rogers as they talked in the living room at the moment the bullet struck down Miss Hoey.

Shortly before the inquest was resumed today, Vincent P. Downey, a New York attorney, who said he was retained by the Hoey family, termed the proceedings a "whitewash."

A way could be found to rid the land of mental defectives. The hard job is to decide where to start and stop.

GARDEN CLUB ENJOYS GASTON PARK DINNER

Even though a second unexpected rainstorm descended about 6 o'clock Thursday evening, it failed to dampen the spirits, at least, of the several members of the Lawrence County Garden club and guests who gathered at Gaston park for dinner.

At one long table under shelter, there were covers for some 30 people, the husbands and several visitors being special guests. In the latter group were Mayor Charles B. Mayne, Councilman D. O. Davies, Mrs. K. W. Reimold, Miss Florrie Davies, Mrs. Ida Hamilton, Mrs. Charles A. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Edgar.

Decorations were carried out with an artistic center arrangement of varied fall flowers, which was, however, only a part of the colorful table which was heavily laden with steaming casseroles of very wonderful food, which demonstrated that Garden club members excel in the culinary art as well as horticultural pursuits.

The committee serving consisted of the executive board: Mrs. C. A. Ingals, Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad, Mrs. A. P. Treser, Mrs M. Feuchtwanger, Mrs. William Howley. Hours following were delightfully informal.

TEACHERS HONOR MRS. HAYFORD

Teachers of Arthur McGill school with their principal, R. G. Leslie, and Mrs. Leslie, honored one of their former associates, Mrs. William W. Hayford, nee Lucy Daubenspeck, Thursday evening, when they entertained at a lovely dinner in a popular tearoom downtown.

There were covers for 14 guests at tables centered with baby zinnias, in tones of yellow with which tall glowing tapers blended. After partaking of the elegant menu, the group spent an informal evening with games of various kinds.

One of the delightful features was the presentation of a handsome gift to the honored guest by Miss Mildred Burleson, who voiced the best wishes of the group for happiness.

Surprise Party

About 40 guests assembled at 16 South street, last evening, at a delightful surprise party honoring Mrs. Frank Derr, of South street. Delicious refreshments were served during the course of the event.

FEDERATION JUNIORS COMPLETE PARTY PLANS

Members of the Federation Juniors met in the home of Sylvia Lee Martin, Park avenue, Thursday evening and completed plans for their evening bridge, to be held at The Castleton on Thursday, September 26. Thirty were in attendance to discuss the details.

Of further interest was the election of delegates for the convention to be held at Erie on October 2 and 3. Those named are Mrs. Jack Lampe, Elizabeth Gilfillan and Mrs. Ezra Marvin. A short period of chat concluded the meeting, and on October 10 members will meet again in regular session with Iva Mayberry.

LADIES ASSOCIATION LUNCHEON-MEETING

Luncheon at one o'clock Thursday in the home of Mrs. John Ingham, Neshannock Boulevard, interested between 25 and 30 members of the Ladies' Association of the First U. P. church. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. M. R. Newbury and Mrs. A. H. McBride, and among the guests was Mrs. James M. Ferguson, of Bellevue.

Mrs. Rebecca Powers led the devotional period, following, after which there was the usual business in charge of the president, Mrs. Fred W. Sontum. An interesting program was presented under the direction of Mrs. M. E. Miller, papers being given by Mrs. Jessie E. Edgar, Mrs. Louis McConaghy and Mrs. Smith.

The next meeting is dated for October, the place to be announced.

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB HAS DINNER

Junior Woman's club held its annual dinner party at New Wilmington Thursday evening. A delicious menu was served in the spacious dining room in the popular tavern, after which the guests enjoyed an evening of bridge. High score awards were won by Mrs. Charles Metzler who has been appointed by the Senior club as sponsor for the Juniors, and Helena Burckart.

Serving on the committee for last night's delightful event were Marjorie Wettich, Mrs. R. Brown, and Mrs. William McCombs. The next club session will be held October 3, at the home of Mrs. William McCombs, at Mt. Jackson.

BREAKFAST AT PARK FEATURES CLUB MEET

Despite the fact the park season is ended, this time of the year is recorded as the most beautiful of all seasons at picturesque Cascade, and in this setting members of the Six O'Clock Dinner club enjoyed breakfast in the grove on Thursday morning. The leaves of the huge old oak trees, turning to a series of rustic shades, and the songs of wild birds, was a note that impressed those gathered for this occasion, while they partook of an appetizing menu.

Later, the group promoted a bingo contest, with Mrs. John Morgan and Mrs. Joseph Campbell being the winners. A card contest was another feature, and Mrs. Walter Gilmore carried off the trophy for honor score.

Credit was given the committee who arranged this delightful outing, Mrs. John Morgan and Mrs. Walter Gilmore, and because of it proving so enjoyable, plans were formulated for a hamburg fry, the date to be announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Everhart of Butz street will receive the club for their regular session on Tuesday, September 24.

LOVELY SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Another delightful event of the week was a miscellaneous shower Wednesday evening, in the home of Miss Elinor Grinnen, at Wampum, the affair honoring Miss Margaret Elaine whose marriage to Charles R. Stevenson, of Ellwood City, will take place September 26.

Beautiful gifts were presented to the honoree, the girls later enjoying the evening with games, bridge and hokum, at four tables. Luncheon details were daintily appointed in coral tones.

INFORMAL TEA AT W. W. CAMPBELL HOME

Invitations have been received by many New Castle and New Wilmington socialites for an informal tea to be given next Friday, September 27, by Mrs. William Campbell and Mrs. Fillmore Campbell, at the latter's home, 410 Neshannock avenue, New Wilmington.

At an appointed time, the honored one was presented with a number of beautiful gifts, to be used in her future home.

SHENANGO OFFICERS HONOR WORTHY MATRON

Thursday evening a lovely affair took place in the home of Mrs. Edward Miller, Boyles avenue, when she entertained jointly with Mrs. Charles Moore, at a surprise shower in honor of Miss Lois Martin, worthy matron of Shenango chapter No. 333, Order of the Easter Star, and bride-elect of October. The guest list included her corps of officers.

Card contests featured the early hours, and at conclusion of play, lovely prizes were presented to Mrs. Daisy McKibben for capturing honors in 500, and Mrs. Bernice Ringer and Miss Hazel Grossman each received trophies for holding top bridge scores. A tempting menu of refreshments was served afterwards by the hostesses.

Toward the midnight hour, a messenger delivered a letter to Miss Martin, directing her to "seek the rainbow," and at its end she would find the treasure. She carried out her instructions, and the rainbow, covering one side of the dining room, was cleverly arranged. She discovered the "pot of gold" in the form of a huge container, which held an abundance of attractively wrapped gifts. The items were of a miscellaneous nature and will be used in her future home.

UNIQUE LUNCHEON AT MRS. W. G. ECKLES'

Decidedly novel and enjoyable was the "2 plus 2" luncheon held Thursday, at 1 o'clock, in the Moody avenue residence of Mrs. W. G. Eckles, for members of the Women's Missionary society of Highland U. P. church.

There were about 55 present, the 2 plus 2 plan being splendidly developed by each of the regular attendants at the meetings bringing out another irregular attendant.

As a feature of the delicious luncheon menu, the committee furthered a "Raggety Ann" idea, the main course being carried out by the use of vegetables to represent this popular doll. For the face, a half of hard boiled egg was used, cloves furnishing the eyes and nose, and a bit of red pepper, the mouth. A brilliant red tomato was the body, with stuffed olives the buttons. Arms were of yellow beans, and the hair, shredded carrot. A medium sized lettuce leaf represented the skirt on which was luscious chicken salad.

On the committee serving were: Mrs. C. K. McGeorge, Mrs. W. J. Offutt, Mrs. W. G. Eckles, Mrs. C. F. Milholland, Mrs. E. F. Toepfer, Mrs. Ellwood Gilbert.

The afternoon's program consisted of music and readings, Anthony Casbero, one of New Castle's young musicians, presenting two violin solos; "Romanzo Anduluza" by Pablo De Sarasate, and "Schon Rasmarin" by Kreisler. He was ably accompanied by Mrs. Russell Muder.

Shirley Snyder presented a group of two favored readings, "In a Pullman Car" and "Auto Intoxication". Mrs. June Bernard delighted her listeners with two vocal numbers, "Prayer Perfect" and "The Rosary". She was accompanied by Mrs. C. G. Lindner, another of the city's well known musicians.

During an informal social period, afterwards, the group decided to meet in October, at the home of Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, at Walmo, with Mrs. Jane McCulloch hostess.

G. H. M. Class

Mrs. Sarah Fisher, Mrs. Willis Fisher and Mrs. James George were jointly associated Thursday evening in entertaining the G. H. M. class of Central Presbyterian church, in the home of the first named on Wallace avenue.

After the usual business procedure, the group had a social hour with various games as amusements and a dainty lunch was served. The next meeting will take place the third Thursday in October.

DINNER PARTY HONORS BRIDE-ELECT THURSDAY

Miss Kathryn Winter, who will wed Dellison Cameron of Scottsbluff, Neb., in October, again graced the role of honor Thursday evening, when the girl employes of the W. J. Offutt company, and others, entertained at a dinner party in a downtown tavern.

At 6:15 o'clock 16 sat down at the attractively appointed tables, where a delicious menu was served. Flowers, suggestive of the season, were used throughout in the decorations.

Later the group adjourned to a reception room on the second floor, where they surprised their honor guest with a shower of beautiful and serviceable articles to be used in her kitchen, and a handsome gift of silver was included in the evening's program. The presentation was made by Miss Bunny Drake, who made fitting remarks in behalf of those gathered.

Bingo was the diversion which occupied the balance of the evening, with prizes being captured by Agnes Main and Gladys Rape.

SHOWERS HONOR TWO MEMBERS

Bonnie Belle girls were pleasantly entertained in the home of Mrs. Earl Rodgers, on Ray street, Wednesday evening, with Miss Jane Young and Mrs. Charles Stritmater special guests.

Bridge whiled away the greater part of the evening with Miss Elma Rickle and Miss Dorothy Depp holding winning scores. The guests were invited to the dining room for lunch where they found the table beautifully adorned with a large birthday cake in honor of the natal anniversary of Miss Hazel Armstrong, who later received a shower of lovely hankies.

As the guests were seated about the table, the hostess came in carrying a broom dressed up as a man which she presented to Miss Rickle, a bride-elect of October 1. When the coat was opened, she found a display of both practical and beautiful gifts to use in her new apartment.

The club will have the next meeting October 2, with Miss Dorothy Depp as hostess.

DINNER AFFAIR ON 89TH BIRTHDAY

Instrumental and vocal numbers featured. As the chosen time, the feast was served by the following committee; Jennie LaTorre, Louise Isabelle, Florence Fazzone, Angeline Colella, Kathryn Augostine, Cecelia Ginocchi, Geneveive DeCaprio and Mary Porfilio.

CCC ON A PERMANENT BASIS

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT advocates placing the Civilian Conservation Corps on a permanent basis. He points ou there is sufficient need for conservation work to keep an army of young men employed for years to come.

Conservation of our timber resources and the prevention of soil erosion have become national problems. We have methods of solving these problems, but long and continuous efforts will be necessary. It is a process which cannot be carried out over night.

If there is to continue to be a lack of employment for young men, a possibility which is foreseen by many analysts of the economic situation, large numbers of them could be employed to advantage in the conservation program each year.

Work of that nature for a period certainly would be more beneficial to them and to the public than to have them waste their time, and depend upon others for support. At the present time, as the president said, there are more than 500,000 youths in the CCC camps, and though the system has its critics, it cannot be denied that these young men are more healthy in mind and body than would have been the case if they had not been given some means of escaping the idleness which often leads to disastrous consequences.

COULDN'T FOOL TEACHERS

And now it appears that a high school faculty got the original lowdown on the late Huey P. Long.

While attending high school in the backwoods region of Louisiana, Huey formed a secret society. As he himself used to tell it, the society "was run to control things, laying down certain rules the students would have to follow, and if they followed the faculty instead of our rules, we kept them off the baseball team or the debating team."

When the faculty discovered this novel bit of adolescent racketeering, they promptly expelled Huey, sending him forthwith into the dark world of educational unenlightenment.

The interesting thing is that Louisiana's future dictator was simply resorting to the ruthless high-pressure technique that finally brought him political power—and death.

Credit that high school faculty with a discernment which, if heeded in time, would have saved the bayou state from more than one severe headache.

FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE PHILIPPINES

Most auspiciously the new Philippine Commonwealth launches its 10 year test for self-government with the popular Manuel Quezon as the first president.

That so overwhelming a victory should be won on a frankly conservative platform without demagogic frills by a candidate pledging adherence to precedents set by American governors general during three decades reflects great credit upon the political sanity of the electorate itself.

This assumes particular force since both of Quezon's opponents insisted upon immediate freedom from the United States, and gives assurance that the people of the Islands are not unaware of the full implications involved in their separation from the United States.

Such level-headed discernment in the choice of leaders and policies and the sane rejection of radical solutions for their problems give gratifying promise for the future of the new commonwealth.

In wishing them well the government and people of the United States find satisfaction in the apparent determination of the Filipinos to face their problems sanely and courageously in their 10-year prelude to independence.

WORK OF THE CENSUS BUREAU

An undertaking, second only to taking the decennial census showing the population of the United States, is the work begun this week by the Census Bureau in Washington—the taking of a census of old people and of business.

Headquarters for the old age census will be in St. Louis and for the business census in Philadelphia. The two staffs will give employment to nearly 40,000 on relief, while the work directed from the two headquarters will require the services of about 135,000.

The task undertaken this week is the cataloguing of the nation's old people by age and name and obtaining the facts and figures for seven major industries. A card index is to be made of family groups listed in the 1900 census, which was chosen as a basis because it listed the ages of all persons then living in the county and will show the names of all persons old enough to be eligible for pensions.

A list of names will be thus provided for federal use in connection with the social security act recently passed and for the states with old-age pension laws which must conform to the federal law if state pension payments are to be increased by government payments.

The business census will show the number of operating units, employment, pay rolls and receipts, besides data in wholesale and retail trade, real estate, business services, financial and professional interests, transportation and communication.

The work of enumeration in every state will begin January 2 next and must be completed in four months. It will be two years before the results will be known, for that time will be required to tabulate and print the material from the thousands of reports.

The business census involves far more work than the census of the country's old people, important as that is for carrying out the provisions of the social security act. The business census will give information of value to the major lines of trade and industry and to the great body of the population employed by them. The government would have had a distinct advantage in putting through its recovery program had it possessed the facts and figures which the census will give. Business interests and the public can contribute much to make the census accurate by co-operating when the enumerators begin their task.

About War, Of Course.
England Says Please.
Italy Says No.
Back To 1914.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE LATEST from Universal Service says Britain and France, "stepping outside the League of Nations peace proposals that Mussolini has rejected," offer Mussolini recognition of Italy's "predominant interest in the economic development of Ethiopia."

In addition, France and England would give Ethiopia important territories, including an outlet to the sea, and Ethiopia, in return, would give territory to Italy.

Mussolini's only repiy for the moment is the announcement of a great "victory loan", with Italy's taxes increased.

EUROPE GIVES a good imitation of 1914. Newspapers and statesmen all around the world discuss war theoretically. Of course, in 1914 there was to be no real war. If war did come, England would not be dragged in. And it was absolutely certain that the United States would stay out. And it would last only a few weeks, anyhow.

NOW ARISES a quarrel concerning Ethiopia, where a collection of more or less savage tribes, given over to barbarism for thousands of years, ruled by an emperor of different race, may start a war worse than that of 1914. And there is the usual complacent "theorizing".

THE BRITISH "grand fleet has cleared decks for action." Britain is watching Italian submarines. You read:

"A British destroyer followed closely in the wake of two Italian submarines that passed through the Suez Canal today."

If war were declared tomorrow, that British destroyer would go full speed ahead in the other direction.

SOMETIMES among high mountains you see little stones rolling and nothing more happens. At other times comes, a slow movement that nobody takes seriously. Then suddenly the side of a mountain comes down, trees, rocks, destroying villages.

The world has been watching the small stones rolling down the Ethiopian hillside. Whether the landslide of war is to follow will be known probably next week. If Mussolini backs down, except on some satisfactory compromise, he will lose his position, and "his face," as the Orientals say.

He has everything to lose by yielding to pressure from England that has set the example of conquering weaker peoples all over the world. If he defies England and the League he can only lose everything, and he MIGHT win

Who believes that he will stay out?

GENEVA REPORTS that under the plan to placate Italy and avoid war the Ethiopian emperor would

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

WE MUST GET TOGETHER

I've reached the age when I'm beginning to resent being referred to as a member of that older generation that is accused of responsibility for the ills of the world.

But I suppose it's fair enough.

I used to be one of the younger generation myself. And when I belonged to that group I was pretty free with my own accusations.

Back about 1917 I accused the "older generation" of war guilt.

I and my friends called the o. g. stupid, callous, indifferent, guilty of the mess in which the world found itself. . . . We were willing enough to help, but we were contemptuous of the individuals who had put us into this hole. . . . To be sure we didn't mean our own fathers and grandfathers when we spoke of the "older generation". We knew that They had been working hard all Their lives and trying to do the right thing. . . . We referred to some vague, strange "older generation" that didn't include the men and women we knew.

And now I find I'll soon be part of another "older generation". . . . The youths and maidens who were babies when I was being pushed into war are beginning to mean Me when they accuse the older generation of criminal responsibility for their very real troubles. . . . for their unhappiness, for their broken lives; for their inability to find jobs for the seeming instability of the world in which they find themselves. . . . I'm the defendant now, as someone else was the defendant twenty years ago for me.

Perhaps I Am guilty. I do belong to that generation that might have said, all over the world, "We will Not go to war. You older people must clean up your mess in some way other than killing Us off."

But we were too young, too muddled, and we didn't have enough experience or wisdom or clearheadedness for that. . . . We couldn't get together. . . . And I wish the younger generation woud try to remember that no generation is all wise, all strong, all powerful, all seeing. And that we need to be together in working out our problems, not divided by suspicion and antagonism, and we need mutual help and understanding.

There's never enough common sense to go around—and we must pool what we have.

That war talk in Europe shows what one man can do even if a dozen good men try to have him do otherwise. It takes mighty little to make a big war.

No matter how many people take an ounce of prevention, the doctor has to keep his office open during the hours advertised.

Newspaper advertising is still the real stuff when it comes to political information. People don't look on a garbage can for a bill when they are looking for important information.

TWO GOOD ONES

Leo H. Ott writes from Wisconsin that the maid, while frying the eggs one morning, fell asleep and due to the clogged gas line the stove burned very low. A few hours later she was awakened by chirping chicks sitting in the frying pan.

There's lots and lots of cold weather out in North Dakota Ernest Keith tells us, particularly in 1907 when he was working in the western part of that state. It had been very cold for a number of days, something like 40 degrees below on an average, then one morning it became more Arctic than it had been at any time before that. The nearest government weather station reported a temperature of 56 degrees below zero. Actually it was much colder than that where we were, he says, because our thermometer dropped as low as it could and then bent the nail it was hanging on.

The handwriting on the wall was some writing, but the handwriting on the ballot is also something to contend with.

Sometimes there are chaps who are ashamed that they lied to you—but they are scarce.

Why hasn't some enterprising engineer undertaken to move the Great Wall of China and put it around the Balkans. China has found it useless as a defense, but it might keep those Balkan quarrels from spreading.

A friend of ours went on a trip to Europe. In New York he bought a bundle of German marks because they were cheaper there than in Germany. When he thought of coming home he found he could take only ten marks out of Germany so he started in to spend his surplus. He went to the best hotels and lived high with the marks until they were all gone but the ten. He had a forced good time.

NEIGHBORHOOD ITEMS

Menlo Times—James Kinney has traded for the store room occupied by Fred Starr and turned in on the deal the barker shop next to the postoffice and his auto.

Winston Observer—A Welsh choir are to be the attraction at the grand rally and pie-cut to be held at Hebron church next Tuesday eve. The Welsh, as all the world knows, are wonderful singers, and they excel in vocal singing.

Madison News—A double funeral was held Sunday for George Sanders who killed himself and then pointed the revolver to his own heart and pulled the trigger.

Middlesburg Item—A valuable horse died for B. F. Brokenshaw last week.

A Johnstown man got three years in the pen for selling fake advertising in Beaver Falls. If all the fake advertising sellers were caught the jails would be far too few and too small. A lot of people fall for no good advertising—and spend real money for it.

A doctor says the best way to reduce is to eat apples. This method reduced Adam down to a little less than nothing.

Naturally the worm turns, but a garden rake, when stepped on, is more vicious.

THE BEGGAR

A beggar, vagrant or what not,
Finds consolation in his lot;
Not all the while, but now and then
He does renew his faith in men.

The highway where he loves to roam
Holds all that we can find in home,
And it fulfills his wish to be Alone, unshackled and carefree.

Like birds and flow'rs and rippling streams
He, unmolsted, dreams his dreams;
His home is everywhere he goes
At each day's dawn, at each day's close.

He is not burdened by the bore
Of having much and seeking more;
And not one day of kindness comes
But what the song birds share his crumbs.

I sometimes wonder would we not
Be richer if we shared his lot,
And, in the face of all his trials,
Put greaater gladness in our smiles.

A congressman said "The least taxes you can impose the better off you will be." He evidently had the administration in mind. If you want to make people happy take off taxes all together or reduce them scandalously.

"Who's that brunette over there?"
"That's Bill's wife; don't you recognize her?"
"I thought he married a blonde."
"Oh, yes, he did—but she dyed."

Gooberpea—I dreamed last night that the price of gasoline was cut in two.

Five children of former marriages saw Wm. McAdoo, aged 72, marry a nurse aged 25. That probably made it unanimous.

Laura—My fiance's birthday is next Saturday and I want to give him a surprise. Can you suggest anything?

Lucile—Why not tell him your exact age?

When a sheriff wants to get out nights he has a friend call him on the phone and jumps into his clothes quick. He bids his wife goodbye and ha, ha—"Gosh it may be a murder."

The applebutter making season is coming along. We have seen some mighty scandalous applebutter, especially the kind people make to sell. It wasn't much better than poor people's garbage.

Fooey—I hear that John Q. Spouter announced that he would never run for office again.

Gooey—When did he die?

It's going to be a long time before people quit talking and thinking about Will Rogers.

No doubt if that potato law is enforced we will have potato bootleggers. There is always some law that makes criminals of ordinary decent folks.

"I am to have some business cards made. Please guide me in this matter, as to size, arrangement and wording."—John M.

Answer: Your business cards may or may not be larger than your personal cards. This fact is usually determined by the amount of wording to be placed thereon.

The title "Mr." is generally omitted from business cards but not necessarily so.

The address should be in the lower right-hand corner and the telephone number is ordinarily inserted in the corner opposite.

Your profession may be placed directly under your name.

If you must place the name of your company in the center of the card, your name should then be placed in the lower left-hand corner and the telephone number in the upper left-hand corner, leaving the address as stated in the lower right-hand corner.

SAMSON?

Mussolini may be playing the part of a Samson. Italy is in a bad way for credit. By threatening to tear down the pillars of the credit temple, burying everyone beneath, he may force economic concessions.

Hitler is in much the same position in Germany. Suppose he uses the same tactics?

Both Italy and Germany then may gain the African footholds they desire for raw materials.

"Statesmen" still are governed by economic desires and necessities.

WAR BUSINESS

President Roosevelt soon may have to decide whether the United States shall handle any business coming from countries preparing for war.

Will manufacturers and workmen appreciate the ethics? War contracts mean big profits.

DETERMINED

The president is said to be determined to keep the United States neutral—and to continue apologizing for any saucy remarks or untoward incidents.

He is constantly telling visitors that he will do all in his power to keep the United States out of any war.

But he is spending more money than any other president exceppt War President Wilson on the army and the navy.

SANCTIONS

Economic sanctions—refusal of one nation to deal with another—are (as we have said) not likely to be invoked.

Even the talk of them causes a decline in the securities of the countries making the threats. Economic sanctions can be as terrible in their consequences as war itself. Not only do the people of the boycotted country suffer, but the people of all other countries that deal with the boycotted country, including the boycotter itself likewise suffer.

Suppose England refuses to deal with Italy? How many British plants would close, how many British workmen would starve? Multiply that by a circle of countries. Trade in all countries would decline.

Sanctions would seem like a plague, world-wide in destruction.

Even the United States would feel serious repercussions.

RACE PERIL

Mussolini has been told too, that his heedlessness may endanger the entire white race.

Nathaniel Peffer states the issue in the Magazine Asia, in these words:

"The world has not been agitated these past few months only over whether Ethiopia will or will not share the fate of the rest of Africa. With a prescience unusual in international relations it has perceived that more is involved in Mussolini's adventure than the fate of the Ethiopians or the aggrandizement of the Italian empire.

"Repercussions are threatened that will extend beyond Africa's shores and are more ominous than the conquest of one country. Of these we are properly afraid.

"I have in mind now not the danger of a new European war but the still greater danger of a resurgence of racial antagonisms, more particularly of antagonisms to the white race....

"I mean the resentments, already deep, of the non-white peoples who for one, two or three generations have lived in subjection to one or another of the occidental empires. There are signs that they are already being stirred. To all such peoples the conquest of Ethiopia will be renewed and now conclusive evidence that armed resistance to the white nations is a condition of continued existence....

"There will always be one law for the white and another for the non-white, and the lot of the non-white will be that of hewers of wood and drawers of water.

"Once that evidence is accepted as conclusive it will be acted on...."

THE GENTLEMAN

Jerry was a gentleman. When once
he gave his word,
The thought that he could break it never once to him occurred,
And if friends should lend him money to supply some pressing lack,
He never rested well at night until he'd paid it back.

He wasn't very clever and he never rose to fame,
But he was jolly company in any sort of game;
And he had a curious notion if he ever made a date,
He'd be punctual to the minute though the other chap was late.

He was gracious to his elders; to the children he was kind.
In the presence of the ladies he was never coarse of mind.
He never drew attention to himself
by manners loud,
And you'd hardly ever see him when he mingled with a crowd.

Jerry lived in simple fashion and was modestly attired,
But no man though rich or famous by his friends was more admired,
And the more I think about him still the more I wonder why Men try various ways of winning and pass Jerry's method by.

He took the mirror home and stole into the attic with it. But his actions did not escape his suspicious wife. That night while he slept she slipped up to the attic and found the mirror.

"Hum-um," she said, looking into it, "so that's the old hag he's been chasin'."

It all sounds like an "old wives tale."

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—Charges of violating the grain futures act were placed against Simon Wexler, Chicago trader today by secretary of agriculture Wallace.

The secretary's complaint grew out of Wexler's activities on the Chicago Board of Trade. A hearing in the case was set for Oct. 10 in that city at which Wexler must show cause why he should not be barred from trading on any of the nation's contract markets.

The complaint charges Wexler conspired with various board of trade members and grain firms to conceal his trading activities from the grain futures commission. He also was accused of making inaccurate reports and causing board members to keep false records.

APPRECIATION

The returns on Tuesday were not entirely what I had hoped for in the Republican contest for the mayoralty nomination, but the vote I received was one that I am proud of. It was the result of hard work by many loyal friends and I can never forget their faith in me.

The primary is over. The Republican party has nominated Charles E. McGrath a high type citizen who will make an excellent mayor. He needs the co-operation and support of every citizen who believes in New Castle and I bespeak for him the support of all my friends.

Four years hence there will be another primary for mayor. May I remind you now that I expect to be a candidate then?

give Italy Ogaden and Danakil, and England and France would give part of their Somalilands to Ethiopia.

Italy says: "No, thank you, Ogad n is nothing but a vast desert, uninhabitable by Italians. As for Danakil, it has truly been described by travelers as the 'hell hole of creation'."

Italy remembers how England, in a settlement that gave Germany certain African lands since taken from her, picked out for the Germans land in which the tse-tse fly and sleeping sickness were the chief inhabitants.

TAKING OVER Ethiopia, a land of African barbarism, by Italy need not mean sorrow for the natives, although it would mean disappointment for the present rulers.

When Britain took the Transvaal with its gold and diamond mines from the Boers, she ended a system that made it impossible for anybody except a certain brand of Dutch Protestant to share in government.

When England took India with her 300,000,000 inhabitants, she did away with the habit of burning young widows alive with the corpses of their aged husbands, and also wiped out prevailing plagues and famines.

When England took the Zulu lands away from the Zulu king, she did away with a native regulation forbidding any young man to marry until he had "blooded his spear," which meant running that spear through the body of some other African.

WHY WEEP at the thought of Mussolini taking barbarous Ethiopia? In that country the king and his family wear shoes, but not others. Even the Ethiopian prime minister never had a pair of shoes. Mussolini would give the Ethiopians shoes, if they want them, work and wages and teach the ultra-violet tribes that now live on raw hippopotamus meat to eat wholesome macaroni and rizotto. Would such changes in Ethiopia be bad for the human race as a whole?

As you perhaps noticed in an earlier edition of the New Castle News a stamp has been ordered issued for the opening and official dedication of the Boulder Dam. This will be issued for the first time on the day that President Roosevelt conducts the dedication exercises of this wonderful example of American engineering.

The president had much to say about the new "electric eye" stamps, the two cent regular postage, only value to undergo that test by the P. O. The sheets of these stamps distinguished by red dashes along sides, and by the fact that the plate number, rather than being in the usual position, was alongside the third stamp from the top. A speaker at a banquet declared that these stamps were worthy investments and that in a little time they might become quite scarce.

And again this week comes another new issue from L. W. McDanel of Beaver Falls. This time the stamp is from Australia and is a mourning stamp issued for Dollfuss. This, unlike the former is printed in a dark blue instead of black. Mr. McDanel was kind enough to include a cut of this stamp this time and I am thus able to illustrate it, for the benefit of the readers.

New Guinea Air Stamps

In connection with the new 2 and 5 pound stamps of New Guinea (which are, of course, primarily air stamps, although not actually so inscribed), the acting Chief Postmaster at Rabaul states that these stamps will probably be entirely used for real postal purposes by the big mining companies. Gold is compressed into bricks of 750 ounces on which postage of 3½d. per ounce may be payable—approximately 11 pounds with coverings. All gold is forwarded to Australia by registered air mail, this being, in fact, the cheapest method of transport.

Mr. McDanel of Beaver Falls has given me the announcement concerning the open house at the Hotel Windsor, Wheeling, W. Va. This has been planned for October 5 and 6 and will be co-sponsored by the Fort Steuben Philatelic society and the Ohio Valley Stamp Club. A number of philatelists from New Castle are planning to be in attendance at this meeting. New Castle's dealers will also be well represented at the sessions.

He also states that a number of Western Pennsylvania collectors have made plans to attend the annual Canton-Akron picnic to be an event of September 21 at Hoover Camp, North Canton, Ohio. Other outings of this organization has drawn as many as 150 collectors and is a real highlight of the early stamp season.

A printed Columbus Day cachet will be sponsored by the American Cover Club on October 12. Send five cents in coin for each cover you desire. Do not send envelopes. This amount will include the cost of first class postage, envelope, cachet, addressing and forwarding. Harold C. Denegar, Secretary, 210 Walnut avenue, Wanamassa Park, N. J.

This foregoing paragraph gives the details regarding a very interesting and beautiful cachet and it is well worth the cover collectors time to send for this special cover commemorating Columbus Day.

Some Jubilees Already Out Of Currency

Further details on the British Jubilee stamps continue to arrive. Stamp collecting notes that the colonial issues already reported out of currency are Australia, New Zealand, India, Southwest Africa, Great Britain, itself, and its Morocco agencies. Gibbon's Stamp Monthly has reported that only 24,000 copies of the 1 rupee Jubilee of Mauritius were available, and that 10,000 of these were absorbed by advance orders.

Stamps In The Headlines

One of the marvels of modern stamp journalism is the way in which the newspaper stamp editors have grasped the publicity value of stamps. In the press columns that we see coming to us from the South and West and North there is hardly a stamp writer that does not hook together the day's headlines and the stamps that add point to current news. Belgium, Russia, Japan, Germany, China, Italy, Ethiopia—these and other nations are much on the public mind right now, and every one of them is featured by stampic journalism throughout the country. Briefly it is the tying up of current events with stamps. It's a wonder Time or the Literary Digest does not inaugurate a stamp-news feature. It would be an ideal combination.

CITY HEALTHIER THAN FARM, STUDY SHOWS

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J.—Life in the open spaces is far less healthy than living in crowded urban sections—at least in the State of New Jersey.

This was revealed in a report by the State Planning Board that more babies are being born and fewer persons are dying in the densely populated counties than in the rural areas. The statistics, covering the past 50 years tend to explode the popular impression connecting longevity and the out-of-doors, it was said.

"We are slowly starving to death" said the great explorer at the boarding house table, "but we cut up our boots and made soup of them."

"She-h-h! Not so loud," exclaimed a fellow-boarder. "The landlady might hear you."

WHY HUBBY SPENT HIS "NIGHTS OUT"

KOBE, Japan—Worried because her husband was never at home at night, Mrs. K. Kimura, of Osaka, asked the police if they could suggest a way of stopping him going out. The police made investigations as to how Mr. Kimura spent his night—and he now faces a sentence of three years' imprisonment. His "nights out" were strictly business—burgling.

RIDES BIKE TO JAIL

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Police arrested George L. Antrobus, charged him with four traffic violations—"jumping" signals, reckless driving, failure to signal properly and ignoring a pedestrians' safety zone, after Officer F. R. Wolter's blood went to the boiling point when Antrobus thumbed his nose at the law as Wolter warned him of his infractions. Antrobus, a six-day bicycle rider, was riding a "bike" when arrested.

"Where's everyone going Dad?"
"Don't you know . . . the new Varsity-Town's are in town"

The traffic is all one way . . . and so are the new Varsity-Towns . . . here in the smartest way imaginable! Things started humming a few days ago when it was nosed about that Fall's newest were on deck.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION COMPLETES YEAR

The Purebred Jersey herd of Lauren Thompson of New Wilmington led the Lawrence county cow testing association in butterfat production for the year just completed according to a report made by Russell Smith, tester.

Other Lawrence county herds in the association making more than 300 pound of butterfat average were those of J. W. Martin & Sons, North Beaver township; J. A. Boak and Sons, Slippery Rock township; and H. L. McCurley and Son of North Beaver township.

The Lawrence county herd with the highest average milk production was that of W. H. McCullough of Big Beaver township.

The average production for the entire association was 6,266 pounds of milk and 303.5 pounds of butterfat per cow; with an average feed cost per hundred pounds of milk of $1.20. Associations which keep entire cost figures on producing milk usually find that the feed cost represents only 40 to 50 per cent of the total cost of producing milk.

The association is now starting a new year of record keeping with Russell Smith continuing as tester. The annual meeting of members of this association will be held in the Agricultural Extension office, Post office building, New Castle, Thursday evening, Septembr 26th at 8 p. m.

LET LATE GRASS GROW TO PROTECT THE LAWN

A frequent question about fall lawn management is "How late should I continue to cut my lawn?"

This question appears to be closely related to the old established custom of covering the lawn with stable manure during the winter to protect the sod and provide some fertility. Fortunately, this practice is becoming less popular. Manure carries many weed seeds which are thus encouraged to grow in the lawn. Protection of the sod is now accomplished by permitting the grass to attain considerable height, the resultant mat of grass acting as a protective blanket.

Thus, we come to the answer to the question stated. Stop cutting the lawn grass when the grass is still growing so as to permit a growth of 3 to 4 inches before snow falls or before there is a killing frost. The added growth allows a greater storage of reserve food supply in the rhizomes and roots, thus enabling the grass to get an early, vigorous start in the spring. The increased food supply provides an added measure of protection against winter injury, and the surface growth protects the roots from extreme changes in temperature.

TREAT PEACH TREES TO CONTROL BORERS

Now is the time to save peach trees from the peach tree borer. Cherry and plum trees also can be treated at this time.

Para-cichlorobenzene is used as a soil treatment to control the borers. It is a crystalline product which changes into gas when exposed to the air. This gas being heavier than air goes down through the soil and penetrates into the borer channels where the grubs are killed.

In this section where the soil becomes cool early, the applications should be made preferably between September 10 and 30.

Cost of the treatment average three or four cents a tree. Only a small amount of material is needed for each treet. Young trees do not require as much as older and the treatment must not last so long. Complete details of the treatment may be obtained by calling the Agricultural Extension Association Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

FERTILIZER RETURNS DIVIDENDS ON WHEAT

Fertilizing of wheat on the farm of William Ile near Newburg, Franklin county, confirms the results of many similar demonstrations in showing that the principal need of the average Pennsylvania soils is phosphoric acid, and that the best fertilizer investment generally is superphosphate.

Ile's soil is the slate or shale on the north side of the valley and the field was manured during the winter. Such manuring has comparatively little effect on the wheat but is fine for the new seeding.

The unfertilized plot winter-killed badly and averaged only 12 bushels an acre. It proved conclusively that one can seldom afford to omit fertilizer for wheat. Ile's fertilizer used on the rest of the field was a 2-9-5 applied at the rate of about 167 pounds to the acre. This gave an increase of 8.9 bushels an acre over the unfertilized plot alongside.

On the other side of the unfertilized strip was 200 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate. This gave an increase of 10.2 bushels over the unfertilized. Next came 250 pounds of 0-12-5, the extra amount being used to give about the same number of pounds of phosphoric acid as the 200 pounds of 16 per cent. The addition of potash increased the yield only .6 of a bushel. Next came 250 pounds of a 2-12-4 complete fertilizer. It gave no increase over the phosphate and potash. Very little figuring is required to show which treatment was most profitable.

Where no manure has been used for several years, it is not wise to depend on the superphosphate alone. Some potash, as in the 0-12-5 mixture, may show striking results on both wheat and the clover, particularly if the soil is poor or light. Whether the nitrogen gives any increase is always a gamble, with the odds apparently against the farmer. However, if the ground is not manured or the wheat is seeded late, then there is no doubt ample reason for using some nitrogen. The superphosphate seems to be the nearest to a sure thing which the average farmer can use. As long as the superphosphate produces as good yields as mixed fertilizer, one need not worry about any bad affects on soil fertility.

DEMONSTRATIONS SHOW BEST CORN VARIETIES

Sixty sweet corn variety demonstrations were staged throughout the state this year in most of the counties, and meetings were conducted at about half of these.

Yellow corn is growing more popular. However, some sections still prefer white varieties, especially for canning and drying.

Where white corn is preferred, the most poplar varieties are Whipple's Early White for early maturing, Earl Evergreen and Redgreen hybrid for mid-season, and Narrow Grained Evergreen, Stowell's Evergreen, and Stowell's Evergreen hybrid for late.

Redgreen hybrid had the best quality. Maturing later than this variety were Lancaster Eight Row and Money Maker of similar quality. Roadside market stands in the eastern part of the state usually prefer Redgreen hybrid because it produces a medium sized ear in good season while growers for the wholesale market prefer Stowell's Evergreen hybrid because of larger ears and greater production.

Golden Cross Bantam is the most popular of the yellow corns, because of high quality, medium size ear, high yield, and disease resistance. Maturing later than this are Bantam Evergreen hybrid and Bloomsdale Golden which produce larger ears but not considered the equal of Golden Cross Bantam in quality.

Golden Early Market is popular in Erie county because of local climatic and market conditions. This is practically the only county where this variety was a complete success this year.

Following this by three to five days in maturing are the new hybrids, including Spancross six, Spancros six and Marcross six. The Spancross ears are not quite so large as those of Marcross.

Next in maturing by not more than a week are Whipple's Yellow and the more vigorous and higher yielding hybrids, including Whipple cross 2-5 and Whipcross 2-39.

ROPY BREAD

Miss Mary Vogle, Home Economics Worker for Lawrence county, reports that there have been numerous calls for information on ropy bread from this county recently. This is one of the common defects of bread that troubles the homemaker in the summer.

This defect is caused by bacteria which are able to survive the baking temperature and develop rapidly in the bread crumb from one to three days after the bread is baked.

This development is easily recognized by the dark sticky crumb produced in the bread and also by its offensive odor. The name "Rope" is derived from the characteristic tiny silk-like strands produced when one pulls the infected crumb apart.

Fortunately rope bacteria are harmless when eaten, so that infected bread may be eaten if the bacteria have not developed to the point where they affect the palatibility of the bread. It also is fortunate that this bread defect can be cured with little difficulty.

Dr. H. O. Triebold, of the Department of Agricultural and Biological Chemistry, at State College, tells us that since rope bacteria do not grow under acid conditions an easy way to prevent their development in bread is to add vinegar to the bread mix. Two teaspoonful of vinegar to each pound of flour (four cups of flour) should overcome the difficulty. Also it is advisable says Miss Mary Vogle to rinse all the utensils used in the mixing and baking with a hot vinegar solution. The amount of vinegar will not affect the taste of the bread.

Baking the bread a little more than usual helps to destroy ropiness as only moist warm conditions favor the growth of rope bacteria.

U. S. Tells Italy Of Concern Over Possible War

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—American concern over the danger of Italy's threatened conquest of Ethiopia resulting in a great European war was expressed informally to Italian Ambassador Augusto Russo by Undersecretary of State William Phillips today.

Russo's call at the state department was on a routine matter, he said, admitting that a general discussion of the European situation had taken place, however.

COULD BE WORSE

Only two passengers, a woman and a Scot, survived the shipwreck. By the end of the third week on the dessert island their clothes were torn to shreds, their provisions were almost exhausted, and they were driven frantic by monkeys which hurled cocoanuts out of the trees at them.

The woman sat on the sand, her head in her hands.

"Oh, dear,' she groaned; "things just couldn't be worse."

"Ah, but they could," the Scot contradicted. "I might ha' bought a return ticket."

Mrs. L. A. More Guest Of Honor

Luncheon Honors Former Teacher Of S. C. W. Bible Class

A covered dish luncheon, honoring the birthday of Mrs. L. A. More, former teacher of the S. C. W. Bible class of the Presbyterian church, was held at 10 o'clock Wednesday, by the class. The event took place at the home of Mrs. More's daughter, Mrs. Earl Guy on West Madison avenue.

Seasonal appointments were used in the table decorations where the menu was served at the chosen hour. Places were laid for 33 guests. Following, the time was spent leisurely with chat.

The rooms formed a veritable bower of flowers, which had been given to the honored one by her many friends in remembrance of that occasion.

East Brook Show Successful Event

Sponsored By East Brook P. T. A., Children Show Improvement In Arrangements

The fruit, flower and vegetable show held at the East Brook school, September 17, was a complete success. It was sponsored by the East Brook Parent-Teacher association, with Mrs. Rose Waddington as general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Paul Wilson, Mrs. Everett Kennedy, Mrs. Harry Kelly, Mrs. Omar Fink and Mrs. John Robinson.

This was the fourth show to be held at the school and much improvement was shown by the pupils in the arrangement of their displays. Additional interest was given by the many ingenious novelties of farm animals constructed from vegetables. Each of the eight rooms had a separate table for displaying their skill in selecting and arranging exhibits.

The judges; Mrs. William Howley, Mrs. Allen Ingals and Mrs. Harold R. McCullough, decided that the Seniors had the best display in the high school and grades 5 and 6 in the grade school.

5c COST HIM $10

(International News Service)

AKRON, O.—John Clark, 26, of Sawyerwood, near here, argued so vehemently over a nickel that it cost him $10. Clark got into an argument with the owner of a lunch room over the number of beers that he had had. The proprietor claimed he drank four, and Clark said he had three. The argument grew to such proportion that an intoxication warrant was sworn out against Clark. His wife had to raise $10 bail to get him out of jail.

Mother Is Held In Baby's Death

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20. — A grief-stricken mother paced her dank cell in the Allegheny county jail today, tortured by thoughts of a babe she abandoned to die under a tree in a school-yard.

Poverty stricken Mrs. Genevieve Battala, of Twolick, a small community near Indiana, had hoped that the infant would find a good home with strangers. But instead it died of exposure on the grounds of the Robinson township school last April 24.

Found after months of detective work, Mrs. Battala was held on an abandonment information by Alderman Andrew Maloney. A tragic figure in her shabby clothes, she was held for a hearing next week.

William A. Reiter Given Dismissal

Chief Of State Bureau Of Aeronautics Ousted, No Successor Is Named

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20—William A. Reiter, chief of the State Bureau of Aeronautics for two years and a state employe since 1928, was dismissed today from his $4,000 a year state post.

No successor has been named. Herman Armstrong, personnel director of the Department of Revenue, in which the division is located said no other changes in the division staff were contemplated "at the present time."

One of Reiter's last acts before his dismissal was preparation of a works progress administration project for "air-marking" Pennsylvania towns by having their names painted on their tallest buildings as a guide to aviators. The project has not been completed.

Probe Shooting Of Young Miner

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Authorities today investigated the mysterious shooting of John Molvin, 21, a miner of Browntown, near Avella, who was in a local hospital today hovering between life and death.

According to police, the victim, his brother, Peter, and step-father, Frank Toth, had entered a room in the basement of a garage in which they lived when Molvin suddenly slumped to the floor with a bullet in his stomach.

Apparently the shot had been fired through a window.

"ALL-BRAN FORMS MAJOR PORTION OF MY BREAKFAST"

Delicious Cereal Relieved His Constipation*

Read Mr. Huyghe's voluntary letter: "After suffering for years, I happened to notice in the grocery a box of ALL-BRAN. I determined to give it a fair trial.

I cannot say enough for its effect, as I am a man 58 years of age, at a time in life when one needs just what ALL-BRAN does for you."—Mr. Robt. A. Huyghe, 810 Union Street, New Orleans, La.

Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.*

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this gentle food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Plan Changing Of Methodist Pastors

(International News Service)

RIDGWAY, Pa., Sept. 19.—As the second day at the three-day convention of the Erie conference of the Methodist Episcopal church got under way today the delegates attention was called to the possibility of an unusual amount of transfering to new pastorates this year.

Discussion centered around the theory that pastors should not remain at one pastorate more than their allotted time, and, therefore, were due for many changes.

New assignments will be announced by Bishop Adna Leonard, Pittsburgh, at the close of the sessions, according to David J. Blasdell, Edinboro, secretary pro-tem.

More U. S. Steel Subsidiaries To Be Considered

Plans Are Announced For Further Simplification Of Corporate Structure

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—Further simplification of the corporate structure of the U. S. Steel Corporation beyond the merger of Carnegie Steel and Illinois Steel is being carried out, it was revealed today with the announcement of new mergers.

Carnegie Steel Company, the principal U. S. subsidiary, today published notice of its plans to consolidate four of its subsidiaries, the Clairton Steel Company, Clairton By-Products Coke Company, Union Steel Company and Lorain Steel Company with the parent organization.

In addition, the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, another large U. S. Steel subsidiary, announced it will join with the Sharon Tin Plate Company, one of its subsidiaries.

These new consolidations lent emphasis toward the general trend of the U. S. Steel Corporation toward simplification of its corporate structure. At the luncheon here Wednesday when Benjamin Fairless, head of the new Carnegie-Illinois Corporation was introduced, Nathan Miller, former governor of New York and general counsel, announced the simplification program already was under way.

He made no direct reference to holding companies but explained it would be wise for the steel corporation to do voluntarily what it might be forced to do in the future.

James---A Great Christian Leader

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

James 1:12—"Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been approved, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord promised to them that love him."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 22 is Acts 15:1-21 and James 1:1-17, the Golden Text being James 1:12, "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been approved he shall receive the crown of life which the Lord promised to them that love him." The following epitome of the Epistle of James is quoted from "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book," by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, O.)

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

This epistle, which is one of the earliest of the books of the New Testament was written by James, the brother of our Lord, to Jewish Christians who were scattered abroad by persecution and enduring great trial for their faith. It is a treatise on practical Christianity second only to the Sermon on the Mount, which it resembles closely in ethical standards. It might well be called "the Book of Proverbs of the New Testament."

James, the Apostle of Work

If Paul is the apostle of faith, Peter of hope, and John of love, James is the apostle of works. James is not so anxious about doctrine as he is about duty. "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves." He is more keen about conduct than about creed; "Faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone....Show me thy faith without thy works and I will show thee my faith by my works" James has no word of disparagement for faith nor even for the great Pauline doctrine of justification "by faith alone without the works of the law." But what he does condemn is the dead and fruitless thing some folk were calling faith which did not manifest itself in right living. True faith will manifest itself in patience under trial: "Count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations knowing this that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."

"Pure Religion"

True faith will manifest itself in pure religion which James defines as "visiting the fatherless and widows in their affliction and keeping oneself unspotted from the world." True faith will permit the church to make no distinction between the rich man with his gold ring and goodly apparel and the poor man in his vile raiment. True faith will enable a man to control his speech and thus bring into captivity that otherwise most untamable of all creatures the human tongue.

True faith will give the Christian control "even of the lusts that war in his members" and enable him to resist the devil and put him to flight. It will enable him to maintain a character prayerful, pure, peaceable, and patient even under persecution because of his confidence in a righteous judgment at the coming of the Lord: "Be patient therefore brethren, unto the coming of the Lord....Stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh....Behold the Judge standeth before the door." So this apostle of work would sing to us "Work for the night is coming, when man's work is o'er."

Big Business Ready To Battle

National Association Of Manufacturers To Test New Laws

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LABOR ACT HIT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.— Big business generally was being organized today to contest the constitutionality of the new Wagner-Connery Labor Disputes Act and be ready to meet other government controls which the National Association of Manufacturers said may be "perhaps more extreme than any yet suggested.

The association's appeal to business men, the majority of whom are among its members, was voiced by James A. Emery, its general counsel. the attack on the validity of the Labor Act was made by a committee of lawyers appointed from the membership of the American Liberty League, headed by Earl F. Reed, of Pittsburgh, counsel for the Weirton Steel Co.

The league's lawyers claimed the new Labor Act, for which organized labor fought so hard, violates the constitution on these grounds:

1. Because individuals and minorities are bound by the bargaining negotiated by majority agents in violation of the liberty and property rights guaranteed by the Fifth Amendment.

2. Employers are denied free choice in hiring, discharging and promoting and are bound by decisions of the National Labor Relations Board while the Unions are free to call strikes if they object to the board's decisions.

3. The act usurps the rights the constitution preserves for the states by controlling industries in interstate production.

While Reed headed the sub-committee which drafted the opinion, the full lawyers' group is headed by Raoul E. Desvwrnine, whose law firm represents the U. S. Steel Co. Both the steel company and the Weirton Steel Co., for which Reed is counsel have crossed swords with the old NRA in opposition to the collective bargaining clause. It was admitted that most of the lawyers represented big business enterprises and that no labor lawyers were represented.

The manufacturers association's counsel defined President Roosevelt's statement the country is now getting a "breathing spell" as an interval between a "preceeding period of strangulation and one of approaching exhaustion."

Selichos Service At Tifereth Israel

Special Service To Be Conducted At Midnight On Saturday Night

Tifereth Israel synagogue will have a Selichos Midnight service on Saturday night at 12 o'clock.

For more than a thousand years it has been customary to attend services on the Saturday night just before Rosh-Ha-Shonah (Jewish New Year.) The "Selichos" is a collection of many of the sublime penitential prayers composed by some of the great scholars and poets of the Middle Ages such as Saadia Geon, Ibn Gabirol, Rashi, Ibn Ezra, Judah Halevi.

Rabbi Cantor Pinchos Katz will interpret the services with "Chazonus," in the traditional orthodox fashion. The secretary of the congregation, Julius Alpern, announces on Sunday, September 22, at 4:30 p m, a special memorial service will be conducted in the synagogue in memory of the Chief Rabbi Kook, of Jerusalem, who passed away September 1 The speaker will be Rabbi Shenson, Rabbi Schiffman and Rabbi Katz

The late Rabbi Abraham Isaac Hacohen Kook, the most venerable figure in Judaism of this age, represented the Ashkenazic, of Western Jews

Social justice requires money, getting money requires taxes; taxes depend on profits; killing profits ends social justice.

LEGION CORPS TO COMPETE SATURDAY

(Special To The News)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 20.— The sixty man drum and bugle corps of the American Legion post at Malden, Mass. will march onto Crosley Field here Saturday night in the Legion's National Pre-convention Drum Corps Contest proudly carrying the official flag of its city and that of the state of Massachusetts, as well as its post colors and the national emblem. Nine corps of national prominence will compete.

At Saco, Maine this past summer Malden won for the third successive year the championship of the New England states. It has won 28 prizes this year and 35 in 1934. It recently defeated the defending national champions.

All except a small part of the profits will be used to buy shoes and clothing for poor school children of Cincinnati and vicinity. The balance will be used at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home.

Big Business will rule so long as poor men will swallow their pride and honor to get a little hand-out.

THREE ARE EXECUTED IN OKLAHOMA PRISON

Pay Penalty For Killing Of Seven

All Go To Electric Chair Rather Calmly. Had Embraced Religion

ONE OF PRISONERS KILLED CHILDREN

(International News Service)

McALESTER, Okla., Sept. 20. In the snappy tailor-made suits picked out for their shrouds, the bodies of three killers lay in the prison morgue here today.

Before an audience of more than 100 they went to their deaths in the electric chair shortly after midnight. The trio were Chester L. Barrett, Bun Riley and Alfred Rowan.

Killed Three Children

Barrett killed three of his eight children. He poisoned them all and his wife, but the others recovered. Riley, a backwoods outlaw, slew three men with a shotgun in the mountains near Canadian, Okla., last June. He said they knew too much. Rowan, a negro, killed a white man in Altus, Okla.

All went to their deaths calmly, strengthened by religion to which they had turned in their last hours. They prayed fervently before the current cut them off.

Barrett was the first. He was dressed in the modish light gray suit he demanded from the prison tailor when they were measured last week. The others had been satisfied with the customary blue serge.

Six minutes after Barrett had been led into the execution chamber, his stiffened body was wheeled out and Riley sat down to be strapped in the chair. He was dead in four minutes and Rowan took his place. The triple execution was over at 12:23 a. m.

State Officers Attend Meeting

When the members of New Castle Court No. 1852, Catholic Order of Foresters, met last night they were pleasantly surprised by the presence of State Chief Ranger Killeen, State Treasurer Rudzke and State Trustee Sylvester. The state officers had come to compliment the local court and to further organizations plans for the coming fall and winter season.

It was agreed to have all future meetings on the first and third Wednesday. Accordingly the next meeting will be conducted on Wednesday evening, October 2, when the newly elected officers will be installed by state officers.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

STUDENTS GO TO FAIR

The first holiday since the opening of school was declared today when school was dismissed at the close of the fourth period this morning in order that students might attend the New Castle fair.

GIRL RESERVES IN DRIVE

The Senior High Girl Reserves club has opened its drive for membership to make new friends. Join the Girl Reserves! Any girl wishing to become a member may sign up after school in the main hall.

SENIOR CLASS MEETS

The Senior A class held its initial meeting of the year on Thursday. The president, Richard Gregor, called the meeting to order. Due to the illness of the secretary, Eleanor Campbell, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Ruth Connor. William Cleland then gave the treasurer's report.

The date for the school dance, which is November 8, was then announced. The general chairman for this dance will be Donna VanHorn.

The committee for the senior dinks was then announced. For the girls, Ruth Connor, chairman; Martha Jo Harris and Marian Ramsay. For the boys, Howard Updegraff, chairman; Jack Locke and James Dufford.

Principal Orth then closed the meeting with instructive remarks.

STUDENTS CAN FOOD

Canning season has been started at the high school. Mrs. Viola Healy, Miss Ruth Wallace and Miss Lois Burry, instructors of the home economics department, have made the announcement that the department is now busily engaged in canning tomatoes, pickles, juices for jellies, beets and various relishes.

All of this canned food will be used during the coming winter at luncheons and dinners given for guests of the home economics department.

ATTENDANCE NEAR RECORD

From the office comes the report of Principal Frank L. Orth that the attendance this semester is far above the average attendance for a good many years.

He states that the total number enrolled to date is 2,154. This figure has only been surpassed once since the founding of the school. That was in 1922.

Although popular belief is that the depression has caused this increase in enrollment and that the post-graduates make up a large part of this number, that is entirely misleading. The total number of post-graduates this semester is 114 and the number in 1922 was approximately 250.

BAND PLAYS AT FAIR

The band of the school very willingly accepted the invitation to play at the fair grounds yesterday and today. The members of the band were excused at the close of second period on both days and were taken to the grounds under the leadership of Prof. Joe Replogle.

INSTRUCTS STADIUM USHERS

On Thursday morning Miss Marjorie Rhodes called a meeting of all football ushers in the cafeteria. The main purpose of this meeting was to get the ushers in readiness for the game tonight with Butler.

Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner was present and he congratulated the boys and their supervisor upon their efficient work in handling the situation at the game last Friday.

He also displayed the tickets which will be used next Friday at the Warren-New Castle game for the visiting students. He states that a large group from Warren is planning upon coming to this game.

ARTISTS NAMED FOR BOOK

Miss Bess Gailey, supervisor of the art department, announces that the artists for the Ne-Ca-Hi staff have already been chosen. They are now searching among the books of the library for an appropriate theme for this graduating class.

Those named to the staff were: Jack Locke, James Bishop and Sam Habib.

POPULAR BOOKS CHECKED

Did you ever stop to wonder what type of books were the most popular on the high school library shelves? A report from Miss Helen Westlake shows that romances lead the list. Following close behind are the western stories and then stories of animals. And you will indeed be surprised to learn that the books written on the subject of etiquette follow very closely upon the heels of these three. The school's books on etiquette are always in demand, and it is indeed hard, sometimes, to find any on the shelves.

This interest in etiquette is not in any respect confined to girls because quite a number of young men are now informing themselves along the line of what to do and what not to do.

One of the new books on the shelf this year is entitled "The Correct Thing, a Guide Book for Young Men." From all indications it will be a very popular book.

And the fact that the students alone do not use these books, but that they receive steady circulation among the members of the faculty is also brought to our attention by Miss Westlake.

The librarian says that she considers it next door to the announcement of an engagement when a member of the faculty takes out "Emily Post"!

LIBRARY IS OPENED

After thoroughly classifying all of the books, the library opened for the first time for students' use on Monday morning.

There are quite a number of new and interesting books on the shelves.

If the circulation of the first week is continued a new record will undoubtedly be established for the library this semester.

Correct this sentence: "You got that stay mixed up, "said the wife, "But I wouldn't correct you there in public."

Defense Tightens Around Gibraltar

All Three Entrances To Admiralty Harbor Are Ordered Closed Today

BIG VIADUCT ALSO CLOSED

(International News Service)

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 20.—All three entrances to Admiralty Harbor were officially closed today in a further move to prepare Gibraltar, strategic gateway to the Mediterranean, for "emergencies".

Following closely orders to the population to be ready to extinguish all lights at a moment's notice as a "defense precaution", naval authorities today closed the viaduct of the North Mole. This left all entrances to the harbor officially closed, others having been shut during the past week.

Many Candles Sold.

Merchants announced their candle stocks had been exhausted as a result of the order to "lay in" a supply of candles in readiness for emergencies. It was understood 14,000 candles were sold in six hours locally, and that thousands of Spanish residents of neighborhood communities also laid in large supplies.

British royal air force crews were expected to arrive at Gibraltar momentarily in accordance with the plan to dispatch Britsh fighting planes here and to other Mediterranean ports to complement the British naval forces.

American Radio Operators Going To Abyssinia

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—In an extraordinary move designed to assure communications with the American legation at war threatened Addis Ababa, the Navy department today announced it had loaned four expert naval radio operators to the State department to establish an emergency station in the Ethiopian capital. The four operators, under secret orders from the Navy department, slipped quietly aboard the U. S. Liner President Harding shortly before that vessel sailed for Europe Wednesday.

With them went specially developed short wave radio equipment and a powerful naval sending set designed to enable them to maintain constant communication with the State department if Addis Ababa should be cut off from the rest of the world by Italy's armed legions.

The operators, all enlisted men, were Chief Radioman Walter E. Tanner, of New London, Conn.; radioman, second class, John L. Cauthen, of Auburn, Alabama; radioman, second class, John W. Anslow, Medford, Mass.; radio operator, second lcass, Cecil F. Cavanah, of Philadelphia.

Official Count Of Vote Is Under Way

Official count of the vote cast at Tuesday's primary was started at noon today by Judge James A. Chambers and the following tellers: Attorney W. S. Reynolds, William Connery, Elmer D. Nesbitt and Paul J. Quinn. It will probably be the last of next week before the results are announced, as the vote for all the ward, borough and township offices must be counted in addition to the state, county and city vote.

States To Adjust Relief Wage Rates

Question Is Handed Over To State Administrators By Hopkins

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Adjustment of differences between the Work Relief Administration and labor unions over the security wage rates was laid in the laps of State Works Progress Administrators today as a result of an executive order issued by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

Hopkins' order authorized state administrators—and General Hugh Johnson, administrator for New York City—to fix their own minimum hours of labor on relief jobs.

There will be no change in the monthly wage scale, Hopkins announced. Thus under the new order, local administrators may reduce the number of hours of labor so that the monthly security wages, on an hourly pay basis, may meet the prevailing rates of wages in the respective communities, meeting the objections of the union leaders to the security wage program. The security wages range from $19 a month to $94.

The order was issued following two conferences by Hopkins with representatives of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor; Gen. Johnson, and assistant secretary of labor Edward F. McGrady.

While Hopkins insisted that no hourly wage rate was considered in the security wage program, and that all wages were figured on a monthly basis, he admitted that the new order would make it possible to meet the prevailing wage rates by reducing the number of hours of work in a month.

Two Aldermen And Eight Constables Win Nominations

Spirited contests for aldermen in two wards and constables in the eight wards of the city, were waged at Tuesday's primary election. In the fifth ward Dave West won the Republican nomination for Alderman over the present incumbent Richard Lewis, and in the eight ward B. J. Biondi won the Republican nomination.

For constable in the first ward Wallace Wysner won the Republican nomination over the present incumbent Andy Fair. Other Republican winners were as follows: Second ward, Frank Conners; third ward, J. C. Kennedy; fourth ward, R. B. Morrow; fifth ward, Joe Dukes; sixth ward, Eugene Mullen; seventh ward, Joe Russo and eighth ward, John Steinbrink.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Elaine Barrie pursued John Barrymore by airplane to Chicago, the Evening Journal said today, but the journey did not end in lovers meeting.

She arirved ahead of him and was waiting when the Barrymore train pulled into Chicago, but John refused to see her and went on west by train.

Elaine left Newark airport at 1 a. m. and easily overhauled John's train.

Her announced purpose was to prevent him from becoming reconciled to his estranged wife, Dolores Costello, by first rceonciling him to herself.

Dispatches from Chicago stated that after she had recovered from again being left at the station Elaine might continue after her John to Hollywood.

Vecchio Not Guilty On Larceny Charge

In the case of Patsy Vecchio, tried before Judge James A. Chambers on a charge of larceny of some road machinery belonging to Mahoning township, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The evidence showed that Vecchio and a couple of boys had been seen picking dandelions in the quarry where the machinery was located, but there was no evidence to show that they had stolen the machinery. It was further shown that it would have taken four men to have moved some of the machinery.

Court Decisions To Have Weight

Capital Guesses As Justices Prepare To Resume Deliberations

MANY MATTERS TO BE RULED ON

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—When the United States supreme court meets in early October it will have before it four important items of New Deal legislation to rule on, as to their constitutionality:

1. The social security act (old age auspices.
2. Compulsory cotton control, provided for by the Bankhead act.
3. Governmental slum clearance and low-cost house building.
4. Governmental power-selling—TVA power in particular, but the government is likely to go into the business on a still larger scale if the supreme bench upholds its TVA sales rights.

OTHERS UNDER ATTACK

Other New Deal programs already are or are about to be under constitutional attack, including those provided for under:

1. T ehsocial security act (old age pensions, unemployment insurance, etc.)
2. The utilities holding company act.
3. The Wagner labor act.
4. The Guffey act (setting up a little NRA in the coal industry).

Controversies over these plans, however, will not be passed on by the supreme justices in the very early future. They first must be considered by the lower (district and appeals) federal courts.

DECISIONS NOT CERTAIN

It is not certain, to be sure, that the "nine old men" will settle the constitutional fate of processing taxation, cotton control, low-cost housing and governmental power-selling at their coming session.

But these cases are on the court's docket—ready to be decided.

The expectation is that the court will decide them speedily.

New Dealers had an idea for a while that the "old men" would be afraid to nullify Rooseveltian legislation, lest such action make them so unpopular as to be followed by a constitutional amendment greatly curtailing their authority.

The justices disabused them of this impression when they knocked NRA into pi.

GUESSING ON DECISIONS

Guessing is that processing taxation and compulsory cotton control will be held unconstitutional.

Guessing is somewhat, but not so overwhelmingly, against slum clearance, which calls for the condemnation of private property, for low-cost house-building.

It is about 50-50 on power-selling.

Guessing is in favor of the social securities and Wagner labor acts, and against the utilities and Guffey acts—whenever the supreme court gets to them.

DELIGHTED, INFURIATED

However the decisions may go, some sections will be delighted; others infuriated.

Illustratively:

If processing taxation is upheld, agriculture will rejoice. Vice versa processing areas (as witness the recent special election result in Rhode Island).

It is the same way all up and down the line.

Builders want slum clearance and low-cost building; realtors hate the notion. Labor demands the Wagner act; employers fight it. Coal mine owners resist the Guffey law; the miners insist on it.

Japanese Beetle Quarantine Lifted

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—Secretary of agriculture J. Hansell French today announced lifting of restriction of fruit and vegetable movements as provided in the Japanese beetle quarantine until June 15, 1936.

State and federal inspectors, French said, have found that "practically all" beetles have disappeared for the season. Restrictions which ordinarily would continue until October 15 were removed effective yesterday in the belief that fruits and vegatables may now be moved freely without risk of carrying beetles.

Other restrictions remain, the secretary added. Nursery stock, sand, soil, and peat may not be moved from the quarantine area at any time without certification. Cut flowers will be subject to inspection and certification until October 15, French announced.

It seems to be a rule. The faster he drives, the less he has to do when he gets there.

But the ducks don't care whether they are killed all at once or preserved to be killed a few at a time.

Rush To Designate Stock Gifts Drops

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The early rush to designate stock gifts, led by Andrew Mellon and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., caused by the coming increased taxes, subsided during August and reached a new low, the securities and exchange commission reported today.

The largest gift transfer during July, the SEC reported from Donald S. Geddes, New York City. He transferred 4,000 shares common stock of Consolidated Gas. The shares are quoted at $27. This ... does not require designation of the beneficiary.

The SEC also reported that Richard K. Mellon, Pittsburgh, owned 15,494 shares capital stock of Westinghouse Airbrake on June 13, and that John L. Severance, Cleveland, owned 40,148 shares common Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

U. S. Neutrality Is Considered

European Trend Towards War Causes Worry At Washington

PLAN STEPS TO KEEP OUT OF WAR

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1935, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Alarmed at the rapidity with which Europe appears to be drifting toward another big war, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his aides have found it imperative to consider the question of American neutrality rights in event the League of Nations should decide to blockade Italian ports.

This question, involving the vital issue of freedom of the seas, already has been canvassed by the State Department.

No Trade Rights Insistence

International News Service is able to disclose exclusively that the preliminary canvassing of the question has led to the belief in official quarters that the United States should refrain from insisting upon the rights to trade with Italy if the League of Nations imposes a blockade against that nation in an effort to save the peace structure of Europe.

The view prevails in high official quarters that if such a blockade was imposed to check Italian conquest, the risk of the United States becoming involved in war with Great Britain and other members of the league by insisting upon the right to ship American goods through the blockade would not be worth the value of American trade with Italy.

Thus, the possibility loomed that if war breaks out in Europe, the State Department may recommend to President Roosevelt that this country refrain from pressing its neutrality rights in connection with any blockade against Italy.

Momentous Step

This would represent one of the most momentous steps ever taken by the United States to keep out of European wars. It would be a complete reversal of the policy followed by Woodrow Wilson during the early years of the World War, when the United States insisted upon its right to trade with both sides.

President Roosevelt does not possess any authority under existing law to prohibit American nationals from trading with warring nations, except in war supplies.

The most he can do under existing law is to place an embargo on the shipment of munitions and withdraw protection from American nationals travelling on the ships of belligerent nations.

However, the view prevailed in State Department quarters that he could adopt a passive stand and not make an issue of any interference with American goods if they were destined for a blockaded port.

Recall Statement

In this connection, Norman H. Davis' statement at Geneva in May, 1933, was recalled.

At that time, Davis told the disarmament conference that if other nations moved to check aggression, the United States, if it concurred "in the judgment rendered as to the responsible and guilty party," would "refrain from any action tending to defeat such collective effort which these states may thus make to restore peace."

The canvassing of the all-important question led officials to express the belief that the American people would not be likely to expect President Roosevelt to risk American participation in another European war by insisting upon this country's right to trade with Italy, if that nation was blockaded by members of the League of Nations.

MY NEW YORK

By JAS. ASWELL

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Advertising Club of New York assembles more bright names witin its sedate Park avenue portals than all the night clubs in town. It is true that during my luncheon visit there the other day I glimpsed a few faces limned not many hours previously in the Stork Club and the Famous Door, but the average of fame is higher on any given day.

I went specifically to see Miss Laura Ingalls, who has just broken the coast to coast women's non-stop and speed air records. Miss Ingalls, who used to be a trained nurse and was later the private secretary to a Manhattan butter-and-egg man, is a small, brisk, thoroughly alert and articulate young woman who would rather fly than eat.

Miss Ingalls is the scintillant, sure type of girl, with the executive flair, who always has a perfectly worded and perfectly devastating retort for anything. Yet she is by way of being a looker and she is not unfeminine. She is a fatalist.

"Aren't you ever scared?" I asked, with perhaps no more originality of attack than usual.

She tossed her head. "When your time's up your time's up. You can find that out whenever you cross against the lights in Fifth avenue. Why should I be frightened?"

The manner of her saying it makes you certain that she has. indeed, nothing to be afraid of. If old Grandfather Death, fluttering after Laura's super-charged low-winged speedster in his ancient flivver plane should ever get close enough to annoy her, she'd toss her bobbed locks in the wind and fling across her shoulder a few pungent words to put the old gentleman firmly in his place.

Captain Bob Bartlett, the redoubtable noser into icy spaces, sat upon Miss Ingalls' right. He was almost unrecognizable out of oilskins, but even so he could scarcely be confused with a character out of Noel Coward.

I had heard hilarious whispers about Captain Bob on the occasion of a recent Ad Club luncheon, at which the words of the distinguished guest were absorbed by microphones and relayed to the radio millions. He was, in due course, called upon for remarks. Whereupon he rose and without ado launched into a discourse so spiced with the virile cusswords of the sea that even General Hugh Johnson was constrained to spin his dial into less explosive wavelengths.

Therefore the officials of the Ad Club had pointed out to Captain Bob that morning, with a proper and respectful tact, that there would be ladies present—Miss Ingalls and Fraulein Toni Stressmann, a German aviatrix of numerous accomplishments. Captain Bob grunted a chivalrous assent he'd mind his language.

But no sooner had Miss Ingalls seated herself than she turned to him and remarked agreeably:

"Well, so you are the Captain Bartlett who was in Greenland!"

"Yes," her eplied, "and it's the damndest blankety-blank country you ever saw!"

When I arrived at the cloakroom downstaris to get my hat, I spied an umbrella on the rack and said to the attendant:

"I think," he murmured unsmilingly "that it belongs to Dr. Kimball of the Weather Bureau.

Free people are those who have escaped a king's rule and thought up rules of their own just as troublesome.

Floyd Gibbons On Way To "War"

Leaves Italy For Africa—To Be Attached To Italian Expedition

(International News Service)

BRINDISI, Italy, Sept. 20.—Floyd Gibbons was "off to the wars" again today.

The first representative of any American news-gathering agency to be attached to the Italian army on the Ethiopian "front," the famous war correspondent left by airplane at dawn for Asmara, capital of Eritrea, and center of operations for some 200,000 members of the Italian Expeditionary Force.

Permission for Gibbons to rush to the scene of imminent war ahead of other American correspondents was granted personally by Premier Benito Mussolini after receiving Gibbons at the Palazzo Venezia in Rome.

Gibbon's direct dispatches to International News Service, describing the progress of war preparations with the same skill that made him the outstanding correspondent of the World War and the Sino-Japanese War, are expected to begin crackling over the cables next week.

In his first story, cabled from Rome, Gibbons revealed Mussolini's steadfast determination to take Ethiopia to give Italy room for expansion.

Dr. Jack Returning To Tennessee Hills

Asks Donations For Mountain Folk In South; Stay Here Over

Dr. Anna M. Jack, New Castle's missionary-doctor, will return south to her Tennessee mission field sometime next week. She has been here during the summer months, carrying on her regular medical practice.

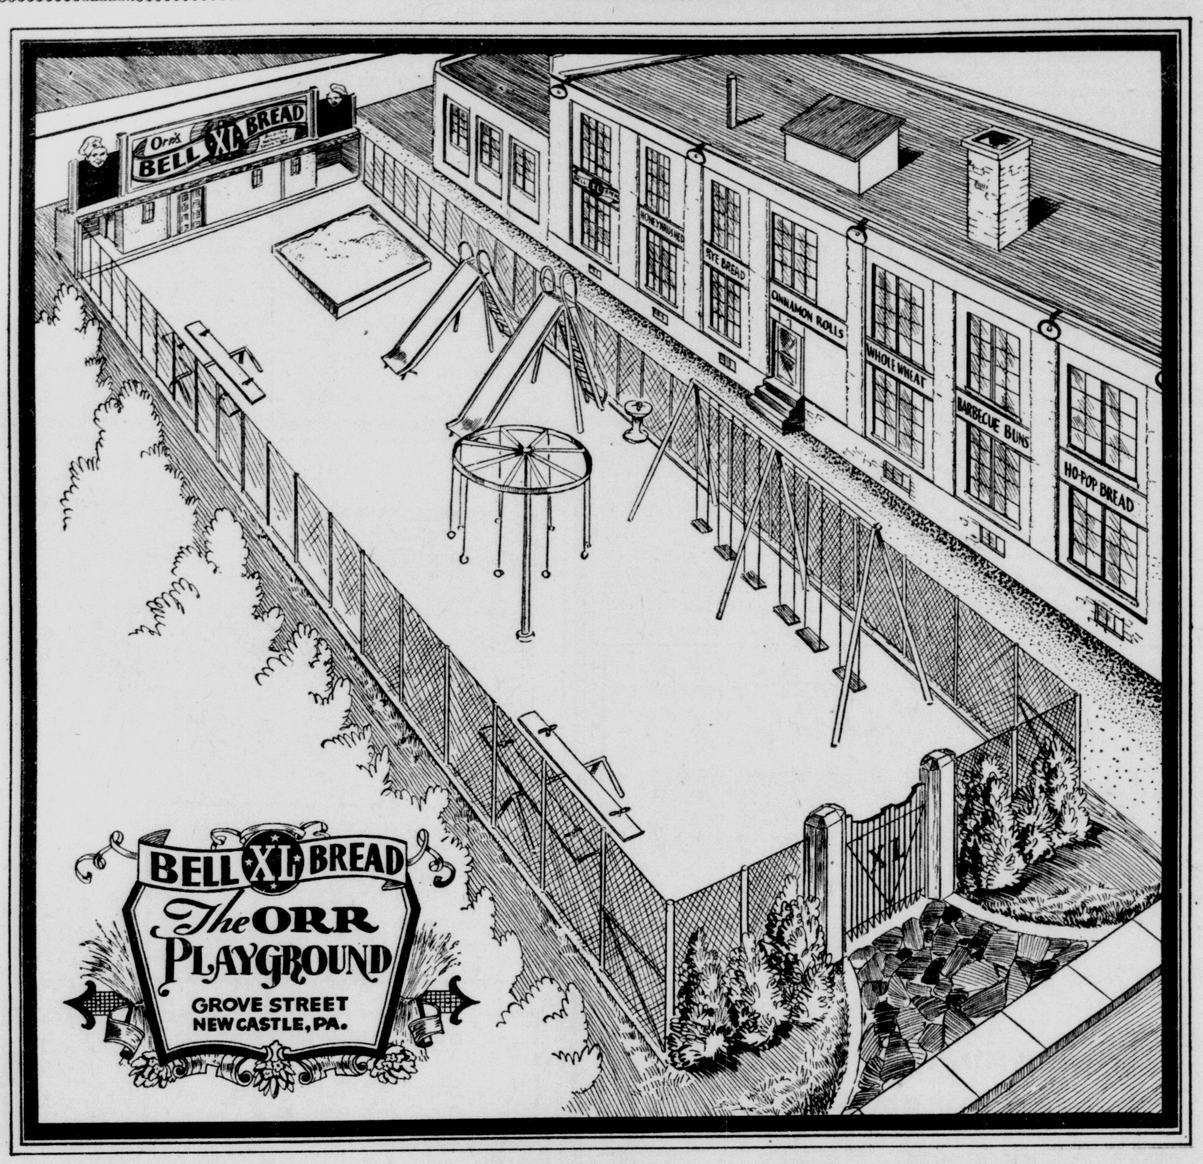
Dr. Jack appealed to the public today for clothing and other donations which she hopes to take back to the needy mountain people.

Throughout many months, the Tennessee folk have had Dr. Jack's faithful service to help them and she returns to them again to do what "I humbly can in the Master's name." Dr. Jack ministers to them in both a spiritual and material way. She has developed a farm, which provides work for many of jobless men and women of the community.

Dr. Jack resides at 1112 East Washington street and donations may be sent there.

You can't prove that people suffer for their sins. They all suffer anyway.

New Playground Will Be Open Early Next Month



Work is being rushed on completion of the Orr Baking Company playground, being constructed on property adjoining the plan on Grove street. The above sketch shows the layout, and indicates what a fine play spot will be provided for children. It will be ready for use early in October, and will be well equipped with apparatus, and in charge of a competent physical director, the company announces. The playground is so constructed that in winter it can be converted into an ice skating amusement place for children. The company is expending approximately $10,000 in building and equipping the playground, it is stated.

15,000,000 More Must Pay Tax Under New Social Security Law

Provisions Affecting 30,000,000 People In United States Are Explained

No Congressional legislation in recent years has been productive of so many queries as the Social Service Law Federal agencies are being bombarded with questions of persons expecting to benefit from its provisions.

Here, in terse form, is an explanation of the law by a Washington correspondent of International News Service who consulted government authorities.

Coupled with this explanation is a warning from Washington: DON'T allow schemers to impose on you with claims of being "old age pension agents." There are none. Adequate notice of where and how to get benefits will be given to every person in due time.

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.— The new local Social Security law, under which the United States, will enter a field of unemployment insurance and old-age aid largely confined to Europe for the last half century, will directly touch the lives of more than 30,000,000 people, it was estimated today.

An attack on constitutionality of the legislation—declared to be the most far reaching in recent U. S. history—is virtually certain. Many members of congress have questioned the Social Security law on the ground that it invades the field of state action.

Should the law be sustained, the administrative machinery necessary to enforce the law may overshadow any other of the many big bureaus in Washington.

Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr., estimated that the Bureau of Internal Revenue will receive 20,000,000, tax returns under the law as compared to only 5,000,000 returns reeceived now.

While administration of the law will be in the hands of a Social Security Board of three members, an equal burden will fall on the tax collection agency.

The bill provides grants to states for old age pensions, sets up an old-age insurance plan, provides grants for state unemployment insurance systems and expands social agencies

The divisions of the act include:

OLD-AGE PENSIONS. Under the bill the federal government will match state old-age pensions up to $15 a month a person over 65 years of age. Estimated cost will rise to $180,000,000 in three years.

There are 7,500,000 men and women over 65 in the country. About 1,000,000 are dependent upon the public for support, the great majority being on relief.

At the present time 29 states have old-age pension systems, but few are operating because of financial difficulties. There are about 200,000 pensioners.

Experts believe that with the federal aid, the number of state pension systems will increase rapidly.

With the nation "growing older," the problem of the aged becomes more serious, says experts. By 1950 it is estimated that the number over 65 will be practically doubled, while the nation's population will remain almost stationary.

OLD-AGE INSURANCE. To prevent the federal and state governments from suffering from too big a load in the future, the act sets up a compulsory, old-age insurance scheme.

It works this way. A pay-roll tax is levied on workers and employers—sharing alike. It begins on Jan. 1, 1937, at one per cent each. It rises to three per cent each by 1950. The yield is estimated at $278,000,000 in 1937 and $1,877,200,000 in 1950.

While agricultural and casual workers, domestic servants and some lesser classes are excluded, more than half the workers of the country will pay the tax, as well as their employers.

The government is to invest the money and to pay old-age benefits to persons after they are 65. It is an insurance plan. The minimum monthly benefit to a person over 65 is $10 and the maximum $85 a month. The federal government contributes to the fund.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., September 19, four arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness three and suspicion.

Businessmen of the city recently have not been too careful in securely fastening doors and windows according to reports received at the police station. It was believed that with several stores robbed some of them would be extra-ordinarily cautious.

Probabilities are that the department of street officials will send out the sweeper to clean up some of the downtown streets at midnight tonight. Some of the thoroughfares are quite dirty. Within a month or two, cold weather will bring snow and the streets sweeper will be garaged for the winter.

Police cars travelled 9,246 miles during August, according to a report compiled at the office of the chief of police. Cruiser car one travelled 3,234 miles; cruiser two operated 2,579 miles and the detective car, 1,363 miles. The patrol was driven only 70 miles to haul prisoners to jail.

BANKER DIES IN GAS FILLED GARAGE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 20. — Funeral rites were held today for Albert L. Lloyd, 47, teller at the Union National Bank for over 25 years, whose body was found in a gas-filled garage at his cottage, Madison-on-the-Lake, Lake Erie.

Friends suggested that Lloyd might have been the victim of a heart attack, but Coroner J. G. Powell of Painesville, accepted Dr. J. V. Winans' report of "possible suicide." He had been ill for some time.

Americanism: (1) "I don't think much of that fellow's performance." (2) "You say he gets five thousand a week? Wonderful genius isn't he?"

On Court House Hill

Attorney W. J. Uber has filed a commission as notary public at the register and recorder's office.

Temple Boyd, recent candidate for county commissioner, was the first to file his expense account at the prothonotary's office. It shows that Boyd spent $62.42. Candidates have fifteen days in which to file their expense accounts.

Now that the smoke of the recent campaign has blown away, politicians are speculating on the outcome of the fall election. There are all sorts of predictions being made and intimations that the fight is not over. There is talk of several independent candidates.

Motion for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense was granted in the case of Joseph Kroyer, assignee of Thomas B. Cory, trustee in partition in the estate of Nathan Cory, deceased, against Lizzie May Adams and C. M. Adams with notice to William Noggle, terre tenant.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard has filed schedules of distribution of the proceeds of properties sold on September 9. If the schedules are not questioned within fifteen days from the date when they were filed, they will become final.

Unused ballots which were printed for the primary last Tuesday have been returned to the county commissioners office. They will be stored in the basement of the court house for two years before they will be destroyed. Ballots in boxes will be kept there until just before the November election, when they will be destroyed.

Will of the late Lena S. Shields of New Wilmington has been probated at the register and recorder's office. The Lawrence Savings and Trust company is made trustee of the estate, the proceeds of which are to go to decedent's brother, George Shields, for life. After his death the proceeds are to be used in giving college educations to Donald Anderson Holtzman, a grandchild of Bessie Shields Anderson and Shirley Clare Shields, daughter of Russell H. Shields. After they have received college educations or renounce the same, the trust is to terminate and the estate goes to Westminster college.

A local politician who has just returned from Harrisburg says there is much gloom in high quarters over the defeat of the constitutional revision program. Some Democratic strategists now say they advised against the administration taking the lead in the revision fight. One thing seems certain that there is not likely to be any further attempt at tinkering with the constitution for some years to come.

Unless county taxes flow into the county treasury more rapidly than during the past few weeks it looks very much as if the county will have to borrow money for the poor department. Most of those who had the ready cash managed to get their taxes paid while five per cent discount could be saved, but since then collections have been slow. Taxpayers have until Nov. 1 to take advantage of the delinquent tax act, under which they may save accrued penalties and interest by paying this year's taxes, and it may be that collections will get better as the deadline approaches, but right now it doesn't look very promising. The county borrowed over one hundred thousand dollars earlier in the year to meet expenses until the 1935 taxes began coming in. The borrowed money has been paid back, but it left the treasury in almost as bad shape as old Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

Confraternity Is Formed At Church

The newly organized St. Vitus Confraternity, under the supervision of Nick Casalandra, met on Wednesday evening in the church hall.

Business was discussed and plans for future meetings to be conducted on the first Wednesday of each month were made. The election of officers took place as follows: president, Jennie Latore secretary, Julia Fornataro; social committee, Kathryn Augustine, Edith DeCarbo, Tresa Cassella and Kathryn Panella.

Mr. Kindler did a considerable amount of business in New Castle and was quite well known. He was the father of Mrs. W. N. McConnell, of 935 Beckford street, this city.

New Enterprises In Palestine Bring Wealth

Persecution Of Jews In Some Places Makes Country Refuge

(Copyright, 1935, By International News Service)

JERUSALEM, Sept. 20.—Even within the first five years of the civil administration of Palestine, it became evident Jews all over the world would take a deep interest in the country and sink investments into its groves and its cities.

The government report for those years, 1920-1925, indicated 150 industrial enterprises were founded in Palestine with a total investment of 1,200,000 pounds, (nearly $6,000,000) of which all but 100,000 pounds was Jewish capital and enterprise.

In 1934, 5,125 families entering Palestine under what is known as the "capitalist category," which predicates the possession of 1,000 pounds about $5,000), brought into the country a sum in excess of 5,000,000 pounds ($25,000,000).

Information gathered by the Central Bureau of Industrial and Agricultural Information showed that these immigrants averaged close to 3,000 pounds ($15,000) per person. Not all of their money was in Palestine, but it was nevertheless available for investment and use in the development of urban and rural lands.

Palestine leaders assert no recitation of figures can describe the spiritual growth of Palestine, now that its economic future is seemingly assured.

Persecution of Jews in many countries has made Palestine one of their chief refuges. Under the guidance of movements and agencies seeking to train and teach those anxious to settle in Palestine, the immigrants entering the country are now said to be ready from the moment they leave the ship to enter some form of useful occupation.

Primarily this occupation is in the rural districts, acquired by the land funds of the Jewish community for settlement. During the years 1930-1934, the total area acquired by Jews amounted to about 38,750 acres.

Approximately one-third of this area was acquired by the Jewish national fund, exclusive of the recently acquired Huleh Lands covering some 12,000 acres. A large portion of these acquisitions is being allocated to workers and persons of small means for development.

Third Class City Officials Receive Digests Of Recent Legislation

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—Digests of laws enacted by the recent session of the Legislature affecting cities of the third class ,are being forwarded to officials of those cities this week by Secretary of Internal Affairs Thomas A. Logue.

A study of new legislation shows that approximately a score of subjects received consideration in the two branches of the Legislature and met with the approval of the Governor. Secretary Logue pointed out that the new laws deal with the budget, contracts, municipal deposits, consolidation of cities, employes, indebtedness, fire protection and fiscal records. In addition the new acts make amendments to existing laws governing highways, license taxes, light and water plants, local government survey, municipal bankruptcy, public authority and public service lines in cities. The new laws likewise cover Sunday sports and amusements in the cities and deal with tax liens, taxation and unemployment relief.

Special Police To Patrol Town

(International News Service)

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 20.—Darkened streets in nearby Dunbar will be patrolled by special officers both day and night, it was announced today.

Street lights in the community were turned off because the council was unable to meet the financial obligations involved. As a result, 20 special policemen were sworn in to patrol the town 24 hours a day.

BANFF — A possibility that members of the Elk clan are growing more effeminate—if an elk can be effeminate—was seen here recently when a large, bull elk was observed trotting down a game trail with a woman's dainty swimming suit draped over one prong of his huge antlers.

It was believed the animal blundered across a clothesline, and neglected to remove the colorful garment from his horns.

Agents Inspect Narcotic Sales

Find Druggists Have Failed To Make Reports To State

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Agents of the narcotic division of the State Department of Health are at present checking narcotic prescriptions in the 6000 drug stores in Pennsylvania. Recent investigations indicate that a number of druggists in certain sections of the State have failed for some time to make the necessary reports to the Department in connection with narcotic sales.

Department officials said, however, that legal action against negligent drug store proprietors would not be taken if, from the date of inspection, the rules regarding the sale of narcotic drugs would be in the future complied with.

WANTS FAIR DEAL WITH ROAD FUNDS

HARISBURG, Pa.—Warren VanDyke, secretary of highways today placed squarely upon the shoulders of maintenance superintendents responsibility for equitable distribution of Parkinson Act monies in the various townships. The Secretary pointed out in his bulletin that although township foremen are granted authority to direct the expenditures, maintenance superintendents must see that the benefits are not concentrated in one community at the expense of others.

STAGE TROUP TO HIT TRAIL AGAIN

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA. — The Hedgerow Theater—that tiny rural dramatic group in nearby Rose Valley that gave the glamorous film star, Ann Harding, her start—will take the road again this year for the second time in its 12 years' existence. A 12,500 mile tour of 19 states will begin in October, ending in January.

A familiar institution to Philadelphians, the Hedgerow Theater yearly presents the cream of the world's drama in its 168-seat playhouse, converted from an ancient stone mill.

States to be visited on the tour include Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Alabama Georgia, Kentucky, Florida, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Akransas, North and South Carolinas, Virginia and Maryland.

Oh, well; Italy will also be horrified by the stealing of territory after she gets her share.

Italian Spokesman Says Report False

(International News Service)

ROME, Sept. 20.—A report published in the United States under a Rome dateline, stating Premier Mussolini had ordered filing of a protest with the League of Nations against concentration of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, was denied emphatically today by an official spokesman for the Italian government

"The American report," said the spokesman, "is absolutely false."

An old German and his wife were given to quarreling. One day, after a particularly unpleasant scene, the old woman remarked with a sigh:

"Vell, I vish I was in heaven."

"I vish I vas in der beer garden," groaned her husband.

"Ach, ja," cried the old wife. "Always you pick out der best for yourself."

Hillsville Will Open Its Library

Shelves Hold 600 Books; Opening Climaxes Diligent Efforts

Hillsville's new community library, with 600 books on its shelves, is being officially opened to the public after months of postponement made necessary by efforts to enlist federal aid for it.

Beginning next week, Lee McComb, president of the board, said today, the library will be open on Monday and Friday evenings between 6 and 8 o'clock and the Hillsville community is invited to visit it.

Miss Anna Arena will be the librarian-in-charge.

A program committee, McComb said, has been named to prepare a program of activities for the winter months.

Efforts to establish a library in the Hillsville district were inaugurated months ago by a group of public-spirited citizens there and have been under way ever since. The federal aid sought could not be enlisted for various reasons.

Varicose Veins Are Quickly Reduced and Distressing Eczema Goes Quickly

There is a simple and inexpensive way to reduce painful, unsightly swollen veins and bunches and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning. People who have painful, enlarged veins should not neglect them for they sometimes burst and cause much misery and loss of time.

Moone's Emerald Oil, being an inhibitory antiseptic, at once deters germ action and poisons caused by germs and is such a fine healing agent that eczema, barbers itch, salt rheum and other simple inflammatory skin eruptions often go in a few days. Piles, too, respond as well as other simple swellings.

For years it has been used for boils, ulcers, abscesses and open sores, and with most pleasing success.

With each original bottle which any pharmacist can supply you, is a folder that gives instructions for use.

NEW CASTLE AND BUTLER PLAY TONIGHT

ANCIENT RIVALS SET FOR BATTLE

New Castle High "Red Hurricane" Football Team Seeks Second Victory

Butler To Send Strong Eleven Here, Game Will Start At 8 P. M.

Under the floodlights at Taggart Field shortly after 8 p. m. tonight two high school football elevens will face each other across the white chalked field in the ancient and honorable game of chase the pigskin. The weatherman can provide good weather for the game if he wants too. New Castle High School "Red Hurricane" football team is ready and waiting for the invasion of the strong Butler High team. The kickoff will find two highly anxious forces waiting to stage the parade up and down the greensward.

Engs At Halfback

New Castle High school football team, having taken the Braddockians (no relation to General Braddock) for a ride of 27 to 0 last week it would seem that unless the local sons have slipped some cogs this week the machine should be hitting in high gear again, and if anything just a little bit smoother. Head coach Phil Bridenbaugh having applied the oil necessary to make the combination extra smooth in performance.

When genial Phil counted noses at the dressing room Wednesday evening he came across one of his star backfield men, Eddie Donegan nursing a badly bruised elbow, the result of having one of the young hopefuls on the reserve team gentally kicking it and then probably tramping on it. Anyhow they don't make elbows that give very much and so young Mr. Donegan will probably be forced to sit on the bench and rub the injured elbow while Bobbie "Flash" Engs the colored speed merchant endeavors with all of his 135 pounds to make life as miserable as possible for Coach Regis Heinzer and the Butler folks who will forsake their bridge games, crocheting and tatting to come here tonight and see what the "Soapminers" can do with the Lawrence County favorite sons.

Your correspondent learns that the rest of the New Castle lineup will be exactly as Mister Bridenbaugh planned it last week. That is unless some of the boys should develop halitosis or house-maids knee overnight.

Butler Warned

Butler High will come here tonight knowing full well what a "New Castle hurricane" can do. Coach Regis Heinzer was among the goggle-eyed spectators who tried to keep up with New Castle last week as they marched up and down the field in double quick time and didn't pay any more attention to the goal line than a young flapper does traffic lights. Heinzer was not the only coach in the stands last week, there being several others from surrounding towns, whose temperatures mounted with the thought that they too will have to throw up a defence to stop those fast charging New Castle backs. That they will have to formulate an offense that can get passed the stalwart New Castle front wall. They probably had nightmares.

Expect Big Crowd

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner is thinking seriously of giving the "weatherman" a pass to all of the games. Any more shows like he staged last week about half an hour before game time, and we will appeal to the administration or the FWB or something. Anyhow, if the weather is nice, the stands at Taggart Field should fill very rapidly. Both Butler and New Castle folks take their football seriously. The gates will open at 7 p. m.

ROBOT FARM HAND

BERLIN—A robot farm hand is one of the latest inventions on view at the Leipzig Fair. It is a mechanical device which fills the cattle's mangers at the right hours with the right quantity of fodder. When necessary, it moistens the fodder with the right quantity of water. Every action is automatic.

Bessemer Opens At Grove City

Bessemer High Going To Grove City For First Game Of 1935 Season

Bessemer high school football team, coached by J. K. Fredericks, will go to Grove City Saturday afternoon for the opening game of the 1935 season. The Lawrence county class A champions of last year are in the best of condition for the tilt with Joe Hartman's Grovers.

Bessemer high lost quite a few veterans of last year, but a big squad reported this year and Coach Fredericks went to work and moulded a fine combination.

Bessemer will probably lineup tomorrow at Grove City in the following manner: Ends, Pezzulo and Guylitto; tackles, Skocic and Bonnacci; guards, DiLullo and Scott; center, Williams; halfbacks, Poushey and Notaresky; fullback, Murphy; quarterback, Marshall.

Duquesne Will Start Campaign

Illinois Wesleyan Will Play At Forbes Field Tonight

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—Collegiate football in the Pittsburgh district will be inaugurated for the season tonight, when the gridders of Duquesne university entertain Illinois Wesleyan under the floodlights at Forbes field here.

Interested eyes will be focused on the Dukes, for they are starting their second straight year under a new coaching regime. The new head coach is Christy Flanagan, former Notre Dame star, while his assistant, John P. Smith, also a former Irish hero, is making his debut.

The encounter will mark the first appearance of the Illinois team in this district. The encounter, opening the current season, is expected to attract a crowd of some 15,000.

Maxie Baer In Good Condition For Louis Fight

Chairman Phelan And Doctor Examine Champion At His Training Camp

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The prisoner of the Adirondacks was led forth into the light for his daily airing, a moment of brief release from the deadly routine of silence and solitude. The gyves, in effect, had been removed from his wrists and he was free again to mingle with his kind; to talk and laugh and perhaps frisk a little. But his guards watched him narrowly and Max Baer even now was not exactly happy. There seems to be a rule here against happiness.

Four nights hence, Baer will engage with Joe Louis in a million-dollar heavyweight fight at the Yankee Stadium, one of the great moments in all the history of sport, with either great rewards or great disaster. But by this time these have lost prestige and importance.

To Max Baer, Tuesday night probably will mean largely a release from an intolerable and unnatural life.

Good Condition

Chairman John J. Phelan came into town yesterday, bringing with him Dr. William H. Walker. They left, expressing deep approval of Mr. Baer's physical condition. But they didn't bring a neurologist with them.

Baer hasn't had a cigarette in five weeks. He hasn't had a drink in six. For six weeks, too, he has seen his wife, Mary Ellen, only for a few minutes at a time. They have him hidden away in a mountain camp, four miles out of town. Each day, they wheel him out for his public exercise; then they wheel him back.

Down in the town, the power company is under strict orders. Come what might, it is to switch off the lights in the Baer cottage at 9:30 o'clock, and off they go, whether the young man is in the middle of a bridge hand or finishing the second installment of a serial, featuring honest hearts and willing hands. He is permitted no radio in the place.

Lock Garage

Moreover, they lock the garage doors at nightfall, so that he can't drive off for a big night down at the general store, and he doesn't dare walk, because bobcats are known to prowl the hills after dark. The other night a bat flew into his room and he thought it was an eagle. He has pleaded so eloquently for a bottle of ale that they now permit him the luxury of one each night before retiring. I think they're beginning to suspect that all this time they've been turning off lights automatically, there is nothing automatic about sleep.

I doubt if they know that they're playing with something volatile and highly explosive, nor that, in isolating this strange study in human nature, they're diverting and obstructing tendencies that are better left to their own devices.

Trap, Skeet Shoot Carded For Saturday

John P. Boyles, secretary of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association, announced today the organization would hold a trap and skeet shoot at the fair ground range, beginning at 1 p. m., Saturday. Persons who journey to the fair are invited to participate in the events, according to Boyles.

Samson would have been a great dictator. He pulled down the temple to smash people he didn't like.

Westminster Squad Prepares For Season

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Assistant Coach Albert "Luby" Di Meolo, Pittsburgh, Captain and All-American, 1929, and Coach Tom Gilbane, All-American center, Brown university, 1932, Westminster college mentors, watch the Titan squad from the side-lines.

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 20.—Coaches Tom Gilbane and "Luby" DiMeolo watched a Westminster college football squad of 23 men out this week with mingled hope and pessimism.

Largely responsible for the small Titan squad is the abandonment of football scholarships. Scholastic standing alone determines the granting of scholarships.

The bright spots of the Titan training camp are a fighting spirit and the return of four lettermen, among them Robert Arrowsmith and Jack Laraway, backs from Erie. Besides these two backs are six other men left from last year's squad: Ralph Clark, Providence, R. I.; Marcus Kozar, McKeesport; Richard Watt, Youngstown, O.; David Mintz, Butler; Earl Wright, Bellevue; and John Susko, Struthers, O.

The best prospects from the freshmen are Lee Wright, tackle; and Harry Shoup, backfield, Bessemer. Harder, 268 pound tackle from Etna is expected to return. By next week, Gilbane expects to have three full teams on the field.

The Titans are concentrating on a passing and running attack, with hard efforts to build up a strong line out of inexperienced material. Punting and passing of the Westminster backs has been good.

The six-game schedule opens for the Titans with Slippery Rock, whose squad of 65 includes eight of last year's veterans. The remainder of the Westminster schedule is as follows:

Oct. 12, Waynesburg at New Wilmington (Homecoming Day).

Oct. 26, Muskingum at New Wilmington (Dad's Day).

Nov. 2, Edinboro at New Wilmington.

Nov. 9, Morris Harvey at New Wilmington.

Nov. 16, Geneva at Beaver Falls.

Last year the Titans, with a somewhat difficult schedule of ten games, won 3 lost 6, and tied 1. Slippery Rock, doped to win, were upset by Gilbane's men. Westminster expects to duplicate the upset on Sept. 28.

Geneva Prepares For First Game

Coach "Dike" Beede Drills Geneva College Gridders For Game September 27

(International News Service)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 20.—Dwight Beede's 1935 Genevans have reached the peak of their preliminary training and are now indulged in "tuning up" for the opening game of a tough schedule. The clash with the Indiana State Teachers heralds a campaign which will find the Covenanters combatting some of the best teams of their class in the district.

The Indians, who invade Reeves field Friday, September 27, in a night game, won the all-state teachers' college championship last year in an easy manner. The majority of this championship club return this year, led by Woodring, a back, playing his fourth year of varsity ball. He is a reputed "triple-threat". The remaining posts on the team have been filled by freshmen who are said to outweigh the old men.

Old Man Injury struck the Geneva camp for the first time this week when Bob Morrow, freshman guard, who prepped at Bellefonte academy, received a dislocated shoulder in practice. Morrow, regarded by Beede as being potentially useful as a husky reserve, will be out of action for a month.

Lineup In Doubt.

While Beede, famous "spinner play" ball carrier at Tech and head mentor at Wetsminster college before taking the reins at Geneva, has not definitely decided upon a starting lineup, several candidates loom as regulars. Most prominent and colorful of the aspiring group is Dominic Roselli, a freshman quarterback from Youngstown, O. Roselli, who tips the scales at a mere 130 pounds and is little over five feet in height, is an excellent "spot" passer and is expected to help revive the passing attack of the Art Grahame - Cliff Aultman - Shorty Troiano days. Chester Delon, veteran letterman, curly-topped Bruce Wilson and hefty Andy ("Gobbie") Gobulick are expected to round out the backfield. Delon, Wilson and Gobulick are all experienced and hard-running backs.

On the line Dick Jones, versatile veteran from Pittsburgh, and Johnny Begolly, Vandergrift boy who stepped into a varsity berth when Aultman was injured two years ago, are slated for end posts with big Marvin Jones, who as a freshman last year earned a first-string position, and Jess Feick of Peters township at the tackles. The stocky veteran, Vince Raney, and Joe Hlista, last year's center, are slated for the guard posts. George Komora of Midland is an almost sure shot for the pivot position. Joe Gustovich of Redstone, Pa., will also see plenty of action at the forward wall.

Good Reserves.

The reserves include Andy Swetka, husky back; Don McCune of Mercer; Nick Garda, Beaver Falls boy, who has met with several hard-luck streaks but who will probably play a formidable part in the Geneva campaign, and Chris Lobinger, freshman from Youngstown, who is an able punter.

Athletic Director A. C. Edgecombe has announced a change of the date of the Waynesburg-Geneva clash from Saturday, November 9, to Friday, November 8.

Tech Prepares To Open 1935 Season

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 20.—With the largest hospital squad in years of training camp experience, gradually rounding into shape, and returning to duty, Coach Howard Harpster is now ready to start polishing up a first-string Carnegie Tech eleven to take the field against Case in the season's opener at Cleveland on Sept. 28.

Fifty Report At Grove City For Football Team

Coach Bill Amos Gives College Boys Hard Drills

GROVE CITY, Sept. 20.—Fifty candidates for the Grove City College football squad, all but a very few lacking experience, are hard at work under Coach Bill Amos, and his assistant, Verne Smith, all seeking varsity berths. The race is wide open, since graduation wrecked last year's club leaving regulars only in one or two positions.

With four weeks of work ahead before the opener with W. & J., October 12th, Coach Amos counts on plenty of time to look over every available player. The entire squad has been out only since Wednesday when Amos started his search for a fullback, quarterback, ends and tackles. Well fortified with small halfbacks, and a group of experienced centers, it is the other positions which will be given early attention.

On a strictly volunteer basis this year, the squad totals sixty players, all of whom will be retained throughout the year. Verne Smith is working with the freshmen, and already has slated several of the new-comers for try-outs as varsity material. All of the promising freshmen are linemen, however, and so far the fullback and quarterback posts are causing concern with no veterans available. Howard Smith, the only regular back returning to school, is being groomed for fullback although his experience has been at half-back. None of the hold-over halfbacks will weigh over 160 pounds, although Shoch, Gulyas, Mazur and others have speed in their favor.

Cubs Capture 16th In Row

Chicago Cubs Again Defeat New York Giants By Score Of 6 To 1

CARDS STAY IN PENNANT FIGHT

By TONY PUGLIESE
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Although the Chicago Cubs today are quoted as favorites to cop the National league pennant, it is also conceded the five-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals will make or break their banner aspirations.

On the basis of 1935 season form, it looks like the Cards in this series for they have taken 12 and lost only five to the Bruins. But who can tell now, that the series will be played on season form.

Win Sixteenth.

The thundering Cubs, in winning their 16th straight, and the fourth in succession over the Giants, again batted their way to a 6 to 1 decision, shoving the New Yorkers seven and a half games from the top. In this respect they join their fellow townsmen, the Yankees, who also are seven and a half games behind Detroit.

More than 30,000 saw Bill Lee register his 19th win of the campaign as he yielded only six hits, while his mates hammered Carl Hubbell and Allyn Stout for 13 safeties.

The Cubs have only seven to play, while the Cards have nine. Obviously, the chips will be down when they clash.

Cardinals Win.

The St. Louis Cardinals continued their march through the hapless Brooklyn Dodgers by defeating them 9 to 1. Dizzy Dean again toiled on the mound, and limited the Brooks to nine hits, while the Cards teed off for 13 hits off Benge and Baker. The Dodgers were able to snare only one victory in the five-game series. The Cards wound up the series two and a half games behind the rollicking Cubs. Each team contributed three errors. Dizzy hung up his 27th win of the season.

In Pittsburgh, the Pirates staged a three run rally in the eighth to defeat the Boston Braves 7 to 6. Gus Suhr homered in the fourth.

Paul Derringer, in holding the Phillies to four hits, became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career, as the Cincinnati Reds won out 6 to 1. Of the 65 games won by the second division Reds, Derringer won almost a third.

In the only American league contest, Lefty Grove held the Detroit Tigers to eight hits, and won his 19th for the Red Sox, 4 to 1. Grove was never in trouble, keeping the hits well scattered.

NEW GERMAN INVASION

(International News Service)

VERDUN—A quarter of a million pilgrims visit the great war battlefields of France every year, and of these 6 per cent are German, twice as many are British. No fewer than 14,700 Germans visited Verdun alone during 1934.

Washington High Football Outlook Quite Promising

Charles "Sleepy" Maloney And Joe "Bulldog" Tanner Two Of Stars This Year

Head Coach Dan Carroll Predicts Fine Season For North Hillers

With "Sleepy" Maloney, the 170-pound bone crusher fullback, in the best of shape for hammering the opposing lines, the 1935 edition of the George Washington junior high school football team coached by Dan "King" Carroll, will be ready for the first battle of the year, judging from indications.

Coach Carroll, mentor of the North Hill institution, visualizes a winning combination this year and has aspirations of ascending to the junior high championship of New Castle this year, unseating Franklin high. There are two very good reasons why the Washingtons will be in the running; first, the fierce fight shown by the candidates, and second, the fine backfield composed of Headland, Seegar, Fleeger, Maloney and Bill "Touchdown" Thompson. This group of ball toters promise to tear all enemy lines to shreds, when not passing them to death, according to Carroll's predictions.

Tanner Is Good.

To lead the interference for this loose-running and hip-swing group of ball carriers, Coach Carroll is fortunate to have one of the most destructive guards to ever wear a black and orange jersey in the tenacious low charging Joe "Bulldog" Tanner, as fancy a football player as ever wore a cleated shoe. The remainder of the line is made up of veterans from last year.

Assisting Head Coach Dan Carroll this year in rounding off the rough edges of a list of 60 odd candidates are three young men who have seen or participated in many football games during their college days. Ralph Stackdale of Slippery Rock Teachers college gives the boys a daily drill of 20 minutes in calisthenics and sitting-up exercises. Mr. Hawk is welding together a powerful line, and J. G. Rubeis is handling the faculty manager post and also assisting in the coaching of the gridders. Mr. Rubeis is quite busy attending to the various wants of the young grid hopefuls, who desire to make gridiron history at the North Hill school.

Union High At Mars Today For Second Battle

Union high school football team will go to Mars, Pa., today for their second game of the 1935 season with the Mars high gridders. Coach Davey Boyd and his Unionites left New Castle shortly before noon today for Mars. The game starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Mascot Brings Luck To Cubs

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—He doesn't show at all in the box scores, but a very important cog in the Cub machine these last hectic days has been Roly-Poly Paul Dominick, the 15-year-old mascot.

With that world's series bonus just out of reach, most of the Cubs have come down with a bad case of superstition and feel the need for something to keep their luck in.

They've hit on Paul, who looks more like a teddy bear, being 15 and built like a pillow snatched in at the middle where his belt is.

He joined up with the club, strangely enough, the day the Phillies came to town and has watched them win all 16 games since.

Everybody on the team has come to believe his presence really spells luck and so they were a bit upset yesterday when Paul was still missing as game time drew near. Paul had started back to school and the teacher wouldn't let him go early.

He puffed into the dugout just as the Cubs came to bat in the first. Galan, the first man up, smashed out a single that started a two-run rally and paved the way for the 6-1 victory.

Yarosz Loses Title To Risko

Yarosz Starts Out Good But Knee Fails Him In Fourth

PLENTY OF ACTION IN TITULAR BATTLE

By VICTOR J. JACOBS
International News Service Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20—Eddie "Babe" Risko, handsome ex-sailor, of Syracuse, N. Y., was the new middleweight champion of the world today. He took the title from a game but crippled Teddy Yarosz in a fast fifteen round fight here last night.

Risko, favored by practically the same circumstances that prevailed in that upsetting New Year's day exhibition at Scranton when Yarosz injured his knee in going down to defeat, hammered the Pittsburgher to the floor three times in capturing the 160 pound crown.

Ted, after edging his way into an early lead by a wily two-handed offense that reminded the crowd of his winning style of past months when he was disposing of all-comers, slowed down considerably after being dropped in the fourth round by a swinging overhand right from the challenger.

Wages Defensive Battle

Fighting closely along the lines dictated from his corner, the champion survived the round by hanging on at every turn. Sheer pluck brought him out limping for the fifth to again open himself to the telling, swinging rushes of the inspired Risko.

The sixth saw the badly-outpunched Yarosz floored for the second time, sinking to the canvas under a rangy two-fisted attack by his adversary. He was fighting a sheer defensive battle when Babe rushed him around the ring and caught him with a series of long hard rights and lefts. He took a count of nine.

Cheered by some 25,000 fans who crowded the right field, Yarosz, his right knee securely taped to relieve his injured leg, pluckily refused to quit in the face of his handicap.

Plenty Of Action

He rallied slightly in the next two stanzas but the teeth again found him submitting to his knee pain as Risko improved his lead. The closing rounds were easily won by the New York pole as he jolted the retreating champion with consistent double-barreled offensives.

The fight was one of the bitterest seen locally in many months. The two boys opened at a whirlwind pace and never ceased their slugging even carrying their fighting past the bell at times.

It was one year ago, save for several days, that Yarosz won the championship here in a stirring battle with Vince Dundee of Baltimore. Ted, loser by a unanimous decision, had looked ahead to this fight in the hope of erasing the stigma of a technical knockout Risko scored over him in seven rounds last New Year's day.

New Selling Wave Hits Market That Sends Stocks Down Five Points

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Another selling wave engulfed the stock market today, sending prices down more than 5 points and the ticker more than 5 minutes behind on the worldwide war scare.

In London and Paris selling movements also hit stock prices and substantial losses were recorded.

Wheat, corn, oats, and lard moved up from fractions to more than a bushel, Winnipeg, Chicago and Liverpool.

After opening down from 1 to 2 points the list showed signs of steadying, but shortly after the end of the first hour the selling broke out.

DuPont, a recent favorite and the leader of the munitions group slumped more than 6 points before meeting with any sign of support.

Blue chips, such as American Sugar Rfg, Eastman Kodak, American Can, American Telephone, Union Pacific, Air Reduction and Westinghouse, were freely offered in the decline.

Chrysler dropped more than 2 points while General Motors dropped about a point. Briggs Mfg led the break in the auto equipments with a loss of 2 points.

Railroad shares were subjected to heavy selling, Union Pacific, Atchison, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson and Southern Pacific lost from fractions to more than a point.

Consolidated Gas in the power and light group touched a new low for the current movement. Pullman also sold at a new low. Liquors aviations, oil, food and tobacco shares dropped along with the rest of the list.

Part Of Losses Regained

New York, Sept. 20.—After breaking one to more than 6 points on the European war scare this morning in the heaviest selling in more than a year, the stock market around noon today met support and part of the losses were regained.

In selling wave, the New York Stock Exchange's high speed ticker fell more than 5 minutes behind the market.

While stocks were recovering, the grain markets, which had been running counter to the trend of the securities, turned weak. Morning gains there of a cent a bushel were converted into losses running up to 2 cents.

The dollar continued to advance in the Foreign Exchange markets, and shipments of $30,000,000 in gold from Europe to New York were booked today. This is one of the heaviest movements of the metal to this country since the flight of capital from France during the financial crisis early last spring.

One of the sharpest breaks on the New York market was registered by DuPont-leader of the munitions group. It broke more than six points in the morning, but on the noon recovery this loss was cut down to 2½ points.

Other markets of this morning selling made good recoveries, but not quite as large as DuPont.

ELLWOOD HIGH TO MEET UNIONTOWN

Local Wolverines Ready For First Class AA Opponent Here Saturday

Mammoth Crowd To Mark Ellwood City Day At Lincoln Field

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 20.—Lincoln field will be the mecca for the people of this district when Ellwood City Day will be celebrated in a conspicuous manner.

Much time and effort have been spent by the football coaches, the team and school officials in making the elaborate arrangements. They have met with the whole-hearted support of Burgess Judd C. Turner and the local merchants. The former has issued a proclamation establishing Ellwood City Day tomorrow, and the merchants have agreed to close their places of business for one hour from 3:15 p. m. to 4:15 to participate in the program.

The new smartly attired Ellwood City high school band will have an important hand in the day's events. The band will parade the streets before game time. It will be on the field in time for the flag raising ceremony at 2:05. Before the starting whistle is blown Burgess Turner will shake hands with Captain Kraynak of the local team and Captain Clark of Uniontown. The band will provide special drills and music between halves. All in all it promises to be a gala day.

Out For Victory.

The locals have overlooked nothing in preparation for this titular contest. Coach "Denny" Schill and Assistant Coach "Dutch" Croft have worked their proteges hard this week. A defense for Uniontown's hard running attack was devised and at the same time their attack was laid down. Considerable improvement has been shown by the local squad this week. The injured had recovered and are rarin' to go. Cy Hughes, regular left end, and Jiggs Hazen, his understudy, have been ill this week and only reported for practice Thursday. This situation is giving Coach Schill some concern. Both seem to be sufficiently recovered and will more than likely be in the thick of the affray tomorrow.

Coach Schill is expecting to start the same lineup as last week. The locals will spring some new dazzling plays tomorrow afternoon that worked like charms against the scrubs and Alumni this week. An interesting thing is that the two teams are evenly matched. The average weight of Uniontown is 160 pounds. Their line average is 162 pounds and backfield 159. Ellwood averages 162 pounds—164 in the line and 157 in the backfield.

Uniontown lost its first game to Scott high 24-6 and was tied last week by Georges township 6-6. For their first game the locals have an 18-0 victory over Union township high. Coach Everhart of Uniontown has a clever backfield star in Captain Clark, who tips the scales at about 168 pounds and does everything well—runs, passes and kicks. He is a two-year letterman. He has two veteran ends in R. Bonchosky and Lowe, and a pair of fine tackles in Tomasek and Hagerty, around whom he has built a strong running attack and deceptive passes.

The game is expected to be a nip and tuck affair. The Wolverine will strive hard to come out on top. They have all the incentive in the world. A victory will mean the placing of a gold football with the names of the team inscribed in the trophy case emblematic of their first class AA victory.

The probable lineup for the game is as follows:

No. Ellwood	Pos.	Uniontown No.
42 Hughes	L. E.	R. Bonchos'y 63
34 Daufen	L. T.	Tomasek 80
35 Pishioneri	L. G.	Machesky 70

39 Frisk	R. G.	Zack 79
43 Tammaro	R. T.	Hagerty 68
30 Flannigan	R. E.	Lowe 60
29 Luxenberg	Q. B.	Darby 65
32 W. Young	L. H.	Kuak 62

Barn Struck By Lightning

Fire Levels Barn At North Sewickley During Storm Thursday Afternoon

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 20.—During the severe electrical storm that passed over this district on Thursday afternoon, the barn on the James Stroehecker property in North Sewickley township was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire.

Fortunately there was no stock in the building at the time although some of the year's crop of grain, hay and straw was burned. At the moment the building was struck Mr. Stroehecker was putting the horses and a drilling machine in the barn. The force of the lightning cut the harness and freed the team from the machine, which was also saved.

Much damage was also done at various other points in the section by the accompanying strong wind. Much fruit including peaches, pears, grapes and apples were blown from the trees and fields of corn were beaten down to the ground.

Rotarians Hear Of Arctic Expeditions

Relative Of Roald Amundsen Thrills Local Rotarians With Talk Thursday

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 20—Members of the Ellwood City Rotary Club were keenly interested and thrilled at their weekly meeting, Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church when they were addressed by Torbjorn Amundsen, a nephew of Roald Amundsen, the ill fated Norwegian explorer.

The speaker, who is employed at the local Aetna Standard Engineering Company, was an Arctic explorer on his own part. He told of accompanying his father and a large crew from Norway into the Arctic from 1893 to 1896 on a ship called the Nansin. He illustrated this extremely interesting talk with pictures, photos, and maps. He also exhibited a log book in which his father kept a daily record of the expedition. Anton Amundsen, the father came back to Norway after three years in the Arctic, with every single person. The expedition was frozen in the ice for one year and had drifted while thus past the North pole. This ship later had gone to the Antarctic. 67 GUPPIES AT ONCE

(International News Service)

WELLESLEY, Mass. — Guppies comes and guppies go, but to the little mother guppy belonging to Reginald V. Yeomans must go the prize. Although guppy breeders will tell you that the record number of offspring at a single instance is but 60, Yeomans counted just 67 from his record holder. But like all fish stories, there was a hitch. It seems Yeomans fed the first 17 tiny arrivals to his swordtail fish before realizing his guppy was out for a record.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Come and Get It

Federal Laws Govern Ducks

Take Precedence Over State laws In Regulating Kills Of Birds

LIVE DECOYS ARE RULED OUT

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—The season on ducks, geese, brant, jacksnipe, and coot in Pennsylvania closes November 15, according to Federal regulations recently announced. Shooting will be permitted only between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m., Sundays excepted in Pennsylvania. The above seasons also applies to other states in the Northern Zone.

Shooting over baited water or land, which has furnished the heaviest toll from all species and accounted for the most consistent full bag limits, will be prohibited.

Floating crafts may not be used more than 100 feet from the shore line or line of visible vegetation at time of shooting.

Live decoys, one of the most effective methods of luring the migratory flocks to the blind, are also ruled out. None will be allowed.

The possesion of more than one day's bag has been made illegal.

Only Three Shells

The three-shell limit placed on repeating shotguns last February will take effect for the first time this fall, and the new regulations provide that hunters may use a shotgun only not larger than No. 10 gage. Under this regulation waterfowl may not be taken with or by means of any automatic-loading or hand-operated repeating shotgun capable of holding more than three shells, the magazine of which has not been cut off, or plugged with a 1-piece metal or wooden filler incapable of removal through the loading end, so as to reduce the capacity of the gun to not more than three shells at one loading.

The new regulations place the daily bag limit on ducks at 10 in the aggregate of all kinds and make the possesion limit conform to this daily bag limit. Changes represent a reduction of two in the daily bag limit of the common species, but extra restrictions on certain species have been removed.

Bag limits on geese and brant remain at four in the aggregate, but the possession limits have been cut in half, now conforming to the bag limits.

The bag and possesion limits on other species affected by the regulations areas follows: Coot, 15; jacksnipe, 15; sora, 25; rails (except sora and coot), 15; and woodcock, 4.

The season on wood ducks, ruddy ducks, bufflehead ducks, and swans is closed and no shooting of snow geese is allowed in any of the states bordering the Atlantic Ocean.

Last year the season on brant was closed but this year it has been reopened.

The regulation prohibits entirely the taking of migratory game birds from or by the aid of an automobile, airplane, sinkbox (battery), power boat, sailboat, any boat under sail, and floating craft or device of any kind towed by power boat or sailboat.

Nobility Offer Goes Begging

Jean Pierre Reinach Will Return To France Muchly Disillusioned Young Man

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—There will be no American nobility.

That was Jean Pierre Reinach's sad announcement today as he cancelled plans for his big coronation ceremony here next Tuesday and prepared to return to his native France, a disillusioned, but wiser youth of twenty.

Last week Reinach sent letters to several hundred people offering to establish an American nobility. For $200,000 he would make you a Baron, and would give you a beautifully engraved parchment certificate signed by himself as proof of the title.

No Takers

Yesterday was the deadline for offers. The prospective nobels were to gather at Reinach's hotel room to discuss plans for the nobility.

But only two reporters showed up. Then Reinach announced that he had received only twenty answers to his call for nobles, and most of them expressed a desire "to get in on the racket."

The Frenchman blamed the unwanted questions of postal authorities and newspapermen for his failure.

Owes Government Over $3,500,000 For Back Taxes

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—William Fox, motion picture producer and theater owner, owes the government more than $3,500,000 in back taxes, the internal revenue bureau alleged today as it filed an amended answer in the U. S. board of tax appeals.

The government in 1932, charged Fox owed $1,630,143 in back taxes for the years of 1929 and 1930, as the result of profits in transactions with Harley L. Clarke.

The greater sum charged against Fox in the amended answer is the result of additional deficiencies founded by federal examiners, penalties for alleged fraud and for the addition of accrued interest.
